Fine City Weather Leads Them All

Perhaps it's a good sign for the weather ahead. Victoria yesterday had Canada's highest temperature—69. It was even 10 degrees hotter than San Francisco.

The weatherman seems to be holding out some hope that the good weather is here to stay.

South Africa

John D Urges Calm

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, counselling restraint and steadiness in Canada's approach to the South African problem, cautioned Wednesday against precipitate action or attempts to "mobilize the plaudits of the moment."

(Other African stories on Page 11.)

The task ahead, he told the Commons, is to bring about, before it is too late, a realization that discrimination is the forerunner of tyranny, change through force and ultimately bloodshed.

HUSHED CHAMBER

The prime minister spoke to a hushed chamber on South Africa's policy of apartheid. He was the final speaker in the three-hour debate initiated by Opposition Leader Pearson, who moved that regular business be set aside so the House could discuss the "urgent" matter.

"The work of responsible statesmen is not to arouse or please or mobilize the plaudits of the moment," said Mr. Diefenbaker, who leaves today for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London.

'ADD TO FIRES'

"Otherwise, instead of bringing about a solution of the problem or an atmosphere in which the problem can be solved, what we do is add to the fires."

At another point Mr. Diefenbaker said: "Let us be served by steadiness and restraint. Remember that the (apartheid) problem did not begin in 1960; it has existed since 1948."

FORCED OUT

Mr. Pearson, first speaker in the extraordinary debate, had expressed fear that South Africa may force itself out of the Commonwealth through its policy of race separation. The Liberal leader, former external affairs minister, also said the killing of scores of OTTAWA (CP)—A $15,000,000 Colombo Plan contribution to Pakistan this year by Canada was announced yesterday in the Commons by External Affairs Minister Green.

Oil Sellers To Die

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—Five of 24 defendants accused of making 10,000 Moroccan ill by selling adulterated cooking oil were sentenced to death here Wednesday.

In a short, dignified service yesterday afternoon the body of Const. Robert Kirby was buried in Royal Oak Burial Park. Fellow officers on the Saanich police force, right, acted as pallbearers. Some 150 law enforcement officers and naval personnel

Rhee Aide, Family Shot

Leader's Adopted Son Triggers Suicide Pact

LEE KAN SUK
... pulls trigger

SEOUL (AP)—Vice-president-elect Lee Ki-poong and his wife and two sons committed suicide in a building on the grounds of the presidential mansion about 5:40 a.m. today.

The family had disappeared from public view this week at the height of the bloody uprising against the now fallen government of Syngman Rhee.

Home Minister Lee Ho said one of Lee's sons, who also is the adopted son of Rhee, shot and killed his father, his mother and a younger brother and then turned the gun on himself.

CHIEF TARGET

Lee Ki-poong was a chief target of anti-government demonstrations that brought the downfall of the Rhee government.

The son named as the killer was Lee Kan Suk, 22-year-old army lieutenant. Younger son was a 19-year-old college student.

Korean press reports called the deaths a suicide pact.

Lee Ki-poong and Rhee were long-time friends and the old president had hand-picked Lee as his running mate in last month's elections.

Lee's lopsided victory led to charges that the elections were rigged, setting off the violence.

HOME BURNED

The Lee family had not been seen since mobs Tuesday sacked and burned their home. Lee Kan Suk was a platoon leader in the honor guard at South Korean army headquarters. He had at times served as military aide to Rhee.

The Rhees are childless and adoptions of the children of friends is common in the Orient.

News of the deaths shocked and hushed South Korea's normally noisy National Assembly, delaying opening of the session called to accept formally Rhee's resignation.

Police Honor Dead Officer At Last Rites

A single shot punctuated the silence at Royal Oak Burial Park yesterday afternoon as the body of Saanich policeman Robert Kirby was driven toward a waiting grave.

Fired in the dense, wooded brush to the north of the cemetery by someone apparently shooting at small game, the report echoed the single shot which took the young constable's life Sunday.

HUNTING PATIENT

Const. Kirby, 31, was shot in the heart as he searched a wooded area for a patient who had escaped from the provincial mental hospital on Wilkinson Road.

Sands' funeral home was crowded with some 350 persons yesterday when funeral services began. All 21 members of the Saanich police force attended.

City police were represented by 48 uniformed men and a number of detectives and off-duty policemen in plain clothes; five members of the army provost corps; 12 RCMP in dress uniform; 30 men and an officer from HMCS Naden, where Const. Kirby was stationed some years ago; 10 men from Esquimalt, 11 from Oak Bay and three from Central Saanich.

MALE NURSES

Six male nurses from the provincial mental home sat on the right-hand side of the chapel.

Police chiefs and deputies from the Greater Victoria area sat in the front with Saanich Coun. George Austin, representing Reeve George Chatterton, and members of Saanich police commission, Stanley Eden and George Askey.

Members of Const. Kirby's family sat in a private room to one side.

The casket, covered partly with a blanket of flowers and partly with a folded Union Jack, stood at the front of the chapel. Const. Kirby's cap, holster and belt and webbing were placed neatly on top of the flag.

Following the service conducted by Rev. Jack Rogers of St. Michael's and All Angels' Anglican Church, Saanich, the coffin was opened and mourners filed past.

The pallbearers, all Saanich officers—Det. Robin Stewart, Det. George Walton, Juvenile Officer D. E. Anderson, Cpl. Frank Briers and Const. Charles Truett—carried the coffin to the hearse through an honor guard of all uniformed men present.

LED CORTEGE

Four city police motorcycles led the cortege to Royal Oak. More than 40 cars followed the hearse, together with three buses which carried the uniformed mourners.

Const. Kirby's mother, Mrs. Elsie Kerr, broke down when she arrived at the cemetery. The officer's widow, Mrs. Dorothy Kirby, was supported by friends.

After the service, uniformed police chiefs of Greater Victoria saluted the casket as they left. Charles Kirby and a friend helped Mrs. Kirby to a waiting car.

Quiet fell quickly as the last cars were driven away.

Drama Opens Inquest

By TERRY HAMMOND

A coroner's jury was told yesterday to decide whether officials of a provincial mental home were negligent in the fatal shooting of a Saanich police constable last Sunday.

Constable Robert Norman Kirby was killed by a bullet through the heart when he walked into an ambush while seeking escaped mental patient Raymond Harold.

DRAMATIC START

The usually-routine opening of an inquest here yesterday became a drama-charged 12 minutes when Acting Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore delivered his brief address to the jury.

"You are asked to inquire into the possibility of culpable negligence on the part of Harold's keepers," Dr. Moore told the six-man coroner's jury shortly after 10 a.m.

WAS IT NEGLIGENCE?

"Was it negligence that enabled him to get firearms and ammunition?"

He said the jury's duty to inquire into possible negligence stemmed from the fact that Harold "was being kept in custody in a mental institution."

ADJOURNED

The inquest was adjourned after formal identification of the body by Detective Robin Stewart of Saanich, and a description of Kirby's injuries by a St. Joseph's Hospital pathologist, Dr. Garth L. Walther.

A spokesman for the attorney-general's department said later it was unusual for an inquest to concern itself with anything other than the actual cause of death, but perhaps justified in the Kirby case by the fact that Harold will probably not be charged.

NOT "CRIMINAL"

The coroner opened his address to the jury with the statement "It is alleged that one Raymond Harold, a person of unsound mind, did shoot and kill Kirby."

"In law," he pointed out, "a homicidal act by an insane person is not a criminal act."

UNFIT TO PLEAD

"Harold is not present at this inquest."

"He is unfit to plead or instruct counsel to plead if he is of unsound mind."

Dr. Walther told the jury that Kirby died as the result of a hemorrhage within the heart sac.

WOUND DESCRIBED

He said the police constable's chest was punctured about one inch from the centre and that the bullet fractured one rib, penetrated the chest cavity, the heart sac and the heart, punctured the left lung and lodged between the seventh and eighth ribs at the back.

The inquest was adjourned at the request of Saanich Det. Sgt. Joseph Armstrong pending completion of his investigation. It will be resumed on May 4.

Labor Seeks Welfare State

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress Wednesday urged adoption of an all-in welfare state program of social security stretching from cradle to grave.

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands (Reuters)—Dutch jet fighters and warships will be sent to the Pacific to reinforce Dutch West New Guinea because of Indonesia's foreign policy and military potential, it was announced Wednesday. Indonesia, a former Dutch colony, has claimed West New Guinea (West Irian) since it achieved independence in 1949. Part of New Guinea is administered by the Netherlands and part by Australia.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Soapstone carvings by Canada's Eskimos are selling so fast that the artists can't keep up with the demand.

When an exhibition of Eskimo seal-skin stencils and stone-block prints opened at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, the whole stock sold out on the first day.

The eight Cape Dorset Eskimos who made the prints of geese, caribou, owls, polar bears and seal-hunters, raked in $20,000.

Next step will be greeting cards in the same style.

John Melling, executive director of the Indian-Eskimo Federation of Canada,

Put Them on Paper

Northern Affairs officer James Houston of Cape Dorset drew public attention to Eskimo stone carving. Then he got a new idea from the seal-skin figures with which some Eskimos decked their clothes. Why not transfer the traditional figures to paper?

From Japan, where he had studied, Houston brought back techniques of print-making. He advised the Eskimos of two methods, seal-skin stencil and soapstone printing. They went to work eagerly.

The result was the Montreal

Money Will Fly In

Later an Eskimo co-operative tourist resort will be formed. Moneyed customers will fly in for Arctic fishing.

"Are the Eskimos themselves assuming leadership in the co-operatives and the community, once the Northern Affairs department has given the lead?" Mr. Melling was asked.

He said he had spent only a brief time in the Arctic, but judged that Eskimos were assuming leadership.

"I attended a council meeting at Baker Lake, and I was impressed by the way the Eskimos ran it," said Mr. Melling.

New Work Likely

A number of graduates have no jobs. However, possible new mining and industrial ventures may provide work.

Only 1,250 Eskimos are without gainful work, Mr. Melling said.

The personnel manager of a nickel mine at Rankin Inlet says that his 40 Eskimo employees are more reliable, more punctual and less rowdy on the average than the white workers.

Eskimos are cheaper to employ. They get the same wages, but they do not demand to be flown out for holidays, as the whites do.

Nelson to Get Coat-of-Arms

NELSON (CP) — Official presentation of Nelson's coat-of-arms will be made in Nelson June 4 by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

The coat-of-arms bears authority from the Royal College of Heraldry of Great Britain.

Central portion of the design, in the shape of a shield, has three peaks with the crown superimposed to indicate the "queen city" of the mountains. A band of silver represents the Kootenay River and a red fish the Kokanee salmon, native to this district.

The motto "Fore Ahead" is inscribed at the bottom, a tribute to the mining industry which brought Nelson into being.

10 Hours, 36 Minutes

SEATTLE (AP) — A Pan American World Airways Boeing 707 intercontinental made the first commercial jet nonstop flight from London to Seattle Monday over the 4,800-mile polar route in 10 hours, 36 minutes. The aircraft carried 81 passengers.

U.S. Foots Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States plans to spend three times as much as Canada this year on new anti-aircraft installations in this country, it was learned Wednesday.

Authorities disclosed that in the current fiscal year begun April 1 the Canadian defence department has earmarked between $12,000,000 and $17,000,000 for new radars and the SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) electronic control system for manned and unmanned interceptors.

The figure compares with the U.S. Air Force estimate of $44,900,000 for the same program, described in the U.S. defence budget as CADIN, the letters standing for Canadian Air Defence Integration North.

The RCAF here maintained that the figure for U.S. expenditures on SAGE and new radars in Canada is classified information.

However, it appears in public testimony given the U.S. House of Representatives defence appropriations subcommittee by the U.S. Air Force March 3.

Both the Canadian and American estimates for the program may be lowered because of the U.S. defence department's planned reduction in the SAGE part of the program.

The U.S. Air Force has decided, for instance, that the SAGE centre at North Bay as well as those in the U.S. will not be built underground as originally planned.

Restraint, Steadiness

At the end of the debate, Mr. Pearson asked whether the last four paragraphs of his speech could be put forward as a private member's resolution and be passed by the Commons.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had made inquiries and found that this could not be done under the circumstances.

The public galleries were about half full as the debate began, but the number of spectators steadily declined as the debate progressed. At the height of the debate about half of the 264 MPs were in their seats.

'AND DO WHAT?'

Mr. Diefenbaker scathingly denounced the "pundits" who demanded that apartheid be placed on the prime ministers' agenda, and other pundits who said he should "speak up in public" on apartheid.

"Speak up and do what?"

Mr. Diefenbaker demanded.

The proposal that South Africa be expelled from the Commonwealth may hold some superficial attraction, "but what would it solve?"

'BRING RELIEF?'

"Would it bring relief to the 10,000,000 Negroes in South Africa? Would it help the whites who do not share the views of the South African government?"

He saw no merit in throwing these people "into outer darkness."

Referring to demands that Canada institute a boycott against South African goods, Mr. Diefenbaker asked: "Who would suffer?"

Canada, he noted, exported eight times as much to South Africa last year — in terms of value — as it imported from South Africa.

PORT ANGELES (AP) — All Washington's Olympic National Park roads but those to the Hoh River, Deer Park and Obstruction Point will be opened Saturday.

Campgrounds in the park will also open Saturday.

The Deer Park and Obstruction Point roads will remain snowbound until late spring.

PRINCESS ALEXANDRA... special visit

Quebec Votes On June 22

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Antonio Barrette announced Wednesday that June 22 will be the date of the next provincial election, his first as head of the Quebec government and of the Union Nationale party.

By announcing the election date on a Wednesday and for a Wednesday, Mr. Barrette followed the tradition of the late Premier Maurice Duplessis who founded the party in 1936.

Mr. Duplessis, a Roman Catholic with a particular devotion to St. Joseph, timed all his elections, by-elections and important announcements for Wednesday, the day set aside in the church calendar for devotion to his favorite saint.

Announcement of the election and the dissolution of the legislature came after the cabinet met for two hours during the morning and briefly after a luncheon recess.

Mr. Barrette said: "Gentlemen, we no longer are legislative members. The legislature has been dissolved. The election will be held June 22."

Mental Health Lecturer

Past-Probing Psychiatry Butt of Jokes, but Vital

Psychiatrists frequently are the butt of jokes because they attach a great deal of importance to the early years of an individual's life. Dr. Ian Kenning said last night.

In a lecture on mental health at Spencerhouse he said that this emphasis is made on the formative years because they contain a number of pitfalls which can have tremendous effect in later life.

At least one person in every 10 in Canada suffers from some form of mental illness, Dr. Kenning said, and more concern should be given to the problem of "how can we create more mature people."

He recommended decentralization of mental hospitals, establishment of community out-patient clinics and preventive service, as well as a program of public education. He added that such measures will cost a lot of money.

Failure, by One Vote

CANADA'S formula for the delimitation of offshore limits of maritime nations commanded more support than any other presented to the Geneva conference on the law of the sea; but as events turned out this week it did not command enough. To obtain approval of the conference the plan required a two-thirds majority vote; and just one vote of the 82 cast defeated it. The fact that 54 nations approved the Canadian formula and only 28 disagree suggests that the majority requirement is wholly unrealistic. But it was accepted before the vote was taken, so that's that.

The outcome of the prolonged debate, with ample recesses for consideration of proposals and for delegates to consult their principals, is of course disappointing to Canada as the sponsor. Far more disheartening than this rebuff, however, is the thought that it ends hope of a workable agreement on territorial and fishing limits being reached in the lifetime of those who have been negotiating at Geneva. Canada's plan, subsequently modified by consent to post application of the "six-plus-six" limits for a 10-year readjustment period, came much closer to acceptance than any other yet suggested; and as far as can be seen from this distance the conference may as well abandon hope now of accomplishing anything.

So the maritime nations of the world are back where they started, with different nations proclaiming their jurisdiction over widely differing sea boundaries and taking their own measures against intruders and poachers. Already it has been stated that the fishing "war" between Iceland and the British trawler fleets will soon be on again.

What is the next move to be towards a universal code of maritime jurisdiction? It seems idle for the Geneva meeting to spend any more time on it, so perhaps the Soviet proposal offers the best temporary solution. It is that the whole question of territorial sea law be turned over to the United Nations for the next five years. Three attempts in the past 30 years to devise universal laws have ended in failure, so it might be interesting to see what the UN could do with the issue.

Change in Control

THE appointment of Dr. G. F. Davidson, well known in Victoria, as new deputy minister of citizenship and immigration at Ottawa was announced yesterday. Dr. Davidson will replace M. Laval Fortier, the former deputy who now will become chairman of the unemployment insurance commission. Although cabinet comment was not offered, there is little doubt that the move implies something of a shake-up in the management of the immigration department, which has been under fire under two regimes for the interpretations it has put on immigration law and regulations in Canada. Dr. Davidson will be second in command of the department, under Hon. Mrs. Fairclough, the minister.

Many Victorians will remember Dr. Davidson as the brilliant young man who for several years headed British Columbia's welfare work under the late Dr. George M. Weir, former minister of education and provincial secretary. His transfer later to the federal government service was regretted, as his selection now for a new post will be welcomed by those who came into contact with him here. Dr. Davidson until now has been deputy minister of national welfare, a position to which he brought considerable executive experience.

The current switching of departmental heads at Ottawa is part of a three-way move in which Mr. J. G. Bisson, at present chairman of the unemployment insurance commission, will become Canadian consul-general at New Orleans. If the changes lead to revitalization of Canadian immigration policies and an end to bickering that will be welcome. Several courts have criticized some decisions given by the department in the past as beyond its authority under the law. Successive ministers of immigration have taken the blame. What might well be at fault however is Canada's immigration regulations and their interpretation at times on too rigid a basis. A country must control immigration but it should not be necessary to divide families, and that on occasion has resulted.

Transition in Korea

IT seems now that Dr. Syngman Rhee has finally capitulated to popular demand and resigned the presidency of South Korea. For a day or two it was an on-and-off proposition after his cabinet quit and his Liberal party dispersed in face of mounting protest as a result of "rigged" election charges. A caretaker government will be named and new elections will be held. South Korea will start afresh.

Dr. Rhee has been president of his republic ever since Korea was divided following the defeat of Japan in the Second World War. He gave it leadership, stability and direction in its beginnings, but crusty old age and a strong-man complex hardened him into a dictator. He was a diehard never reconciled to Communist possession of the northern half of his country. This was no sin, but verbally at least he seemed ready any day to start a war about it.

Having had one indecisive campaign in the "Korean War" of 1950-53 the Allies who fought it—and would have to do the fighting a second time—had no desire for a repeat performance. Their recent rebuke to Syngman Rhee is indicative of their uneasiness over his wilful and undemocratic tendencies and the unsettled atmosphere that might have invited another intervention by North Korea. Undoubtedly Dr. Rhee has been under pressure by the U.S. government in particular—his chief sponsor—to mend his ways.

Obviously this will best be accomplished by his retirement from the scene and the election of a new regime entrusted with democratic means of governance. That is the prospect which now lies before a restive people, in a transition fortunately calm after recent riots and disorders. South Korea is one of the Achilles heels of the Allied world front and continued disturbance there would be of standing concern to the Western nations.

Interpreting the News

Berlin Issue Rankles

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THERE are strong indications that in the wake of private talks between French President de Gaulle and President Eisenhower, the Western powers now will be able to go to the summit meeting in Paris in May united on basic strategy in dealing with Premier Khrushchev.

That is not to say that all major differences inside the Western camp have been resolved. Spokesmen made clear that while the two leaders agreed on summit strategy, there were areas of disagreement outside the summit sphere.

In any event, de Gaulle is gaining respect and attention during his visit to the U.S.

In preaching harmony between East and West, de Gaulle probably has the destiny of France foremost in mind. Though he has done wonders in restoring France's economic and political strength, the country still is besieged by grave issues.

France needs time to end the Algerian war and expand her industrial base through the six-country Common Market. Time, in peace, is what de Gaulle apparently is striving to obtain.

It would be good for France and for all the world if the attention of the world's two foremost powers—Russia and the U.S.—would be diverted from Berlin into the fields of human improvement, such as eradication of tuberculosis in Asia and development of the Nile Valley.

De Gaulle keeps urging the West to leave the Berlin issue as it is and not try to seek solutions immediately at the summit. Eisenhower is reported to have agreed with him that the West need not take the initiative on Berlin; that it is Khrushchev who should throw the first ball.

De Gaulle has even indicated his belief that Khrushchev won't make any challenge on the Berlin issue.

No sooner had de Gaulle made his prediction last week than Khrushchev started raising new threats in a Russian speech, indicating he won't let the Berlin issue alone.

Khrushchev wants to eject Western occupation forces from West Berlin. He has renewed a threat to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany if the Western powers "ignore the issue contrary to common sense."

"Tell me, as one old soldier to another, how does it feel actually to run a government?"

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."
By TOM TAYLOR

SOMETIMES we say to someone: "I trust you enjoyed yourself," but the word for this sentiment is not trust. Trust in this instance is really just hope, a much less positive term.

If one can trust there is no need for hope, for trust is an assurance, a confidence, a feeling of absolute reliance.

None of us can say of the forthcoming summit meetings, for instance, that we trust they will be profitable. There is no semblance of guarantee that they will and therefore there can be no confidence. Indeed the hope itself, more's the pity, is merely an expression of voice.

Trust, then, is really faith; surely, a belief.

A military commander once said, you remember, "Put your trust in God, my boys, and keep your powder dry."

He was really playing it both ways, however; his trust didn't amount to utter belief, complete faith. Somewhat like the missionary in Darkest Africa of whom I once heard Governor-General Tweedsmuir speak. He walked the jungle with a Bible in one hand and a bottle of whisky in the other.

Although probably in his case he believed that God helps those who also help themselves—to ward off disease, I mean. Spirits have a medicinal quality, you know.

I saw a splendid example of trust—of utter complete faith—the other night during the Rotary district conference. One of the entertainment highlights was an aquatic display at the Crystal pool by Archie MacKinnon's proteges, and what a host of fine boys and girls these swimmers are.

And one of the performers—listen to this—was a tiny two-year-old whose feat was to toddle to the end of the diving board and jump into the deep end of the pool.

If as a grown-up you are, not a good swimmer, or can't swim at all, you can easily imagine that the water, some five feet down, would look mighty far away. Especially, surely, to a little miss like that.

It was the audience that tensed itself as the tiny creature teetered on the end of the board. True enough there was the comforting voice of Archie MacKinnon to warm her as he called, "Jump, Susie, jump," but after all she was such a small soul. It would have been no wonder had she shrunk back. It must have seemed a formidable assignment.

But Susie's older sister was in the pool, waiting with arms alert to catch her when she hit the water, and there you have a supreme instance of trust. Not hope, but absolute belief there was nothing to be afraid of and that she would not come to harm.

So little Susie smiled all round, took her time and then jumped and disappeared beneath the surface. And when she came up again, clasped safely in her sister's arms, the Crystal Garden rang with relieved applause.

It is in the family, of course, that children feel most secure, glowing in the surety that their loved ones will cherish and protect them.

But what a wonderful world this would be if all of us could enjoy the trust, in all our relations, that Susie had when she jumped unafraid into the Crystal pool.

Reports from Ottawa

WHERE'S my divorce?" an anxious woman wrote to one of the officers of Parliament the other day. "My wedding is all arranged for the middle of May. Even the invitations are out. How can I get married if I don't get my divorce in time?"

The self-evident fact is that she can't. Not legally. And she is not alone in her predicament. Senate divorce committee officials, worldly wise from hearing thousands of cases, say the most common reason for a person to seek a parliamentary divorce is a desire to marry someone else.

Thus a substantial number of orange blossom ceremonies in this nuptial season now upon us may have to be postponed because two CCF MPs have decided that Parliament should not grant divorces.

Whether any ladies are going to be even more seriously inconvenienced is not a matter of record. Senate officials tell me, however, that such situations are not unknown in the annals of their divorce mill.

Six hundred and nine persons, an all-time record, have applied to Parliament for divorces by special legislation entitled, aptly enough, "An act for the relief of" John Doe or Mary Roe or whoever the applicant may be.

With the parliamentary session about half over, only 25 divorces have been granted; 319 are in various stages in the Senate, their passage delayed only by the sheer volume of work they impose on the Senate divorce committees; 265 others are before the House of Commons, where normally they would be passed quickly. But the Commons machinery has come to a virtual stop because CCFers Arnold Peters and Frank Howard choose to exercise their right as MPs to debate every divorce bill that comes up. The result is an effective filibuster.

Their aim is to force the government to make other arrangements for granting divorces to Quebecers. They are embarrassing the government because it doesn't want to force a regular divorce court on Quebec, even a federal one, knowing that such action would do the Conservative party great political harm in Quebec.

But there is an important aspect of this divorce stalemate that everybody seems to overlook.

It is that the two CCF MPs are denying the constitutional right of a minority, the non-Roman Catholic minority in Quebec.

The Quebec Civil Code, the unique body of French-Canadian civil law which antedates Confederation, asserts that marriages are permanent, and may not be dissolved except by death. Thus it reflects church law.

The British North America Act of 1867 allocated divorce-granting powers to the federal Parliament for just this reason: to protect the right to divorce of that minority of Quebecers who choose to consider themselves not bound by the ecclesiastical ban on divorces.

Howard and Peters are blocking the relief to which 265 citizens have a constitutional right. The government has not taken any action to end this denial of rights. Yet both the CCF and Conservative parties are pledged in convention resolutions and in their respective leaders' ringing words to defend the rights of minorities.

Surely a desire by Parliament to rid itself of odious and onerous duties does not warrant the denial, for nearly two months now, of the constitutional rights of citizens.

Hot Words in Vancouver

Custody of a Statue

By GEORGE NICHOLSON

THERE was a considerable rumour in Victoria city council over the proposal to place the Queen Elizabeth statue in Beacon Hill park.

This was but a storm in a teacup compared with a park statue problem Vancouver's mayor and aldermen recently had on their hands. Two months ago the council asked Governor-General Vanier if he would unveil the statue of Lord Stanley in Stanley park when he visited that city in May. His Excellency accepted, and suggested May 19 as a suitable date. Yet up until a few days ago, Vancouver city council had no statue to unveil.

This is the story: In 1951 people from all parts of British Columbia, including several Victoria residents, subscribed to a fund and the famous sculptor, Sidney March, of March Bros., Farnborough, England, was commissioned to make a statue of Lord Stanley, after whom the park was named. March Brothers created the Canadian National War Memorial at Ottawa, and the War Memorial in the legislative grounds at Victoria.

The seven-foot-high bronze statue arrived at Vancouver three years ago. Successive mayors and aldermen insisted that it be decided to the city council; but the city architect, Major J. S. Matthews, V.D., the sole trustee for the fund, has just as persistently maintained that it is the property of the subscribers, not of the city.

Meanwhile, the statue has remained in storage, with Major Matthews holding the key and the fund paying the rent. Only two weeks ago the council notified Major Matthews that failing receipt of a release the governor-general would be advised "that owing to unforeseen circumstances" its invitation to him to unveil the statue would have to be withdrawn.

The major remained adamant and hot words passed between himself and Mayor Alsbury—mostly through the press. Alderman Halford Wilson was then invited to act as intermediary; conferences were held and finally the statue was released, but no deed of conveyance was signed.

The statue, still the property of the subscribers to the fund, will be unveiled by the governor-general at 2:15 p.m. on May 19, as scheduled. Mounted on a granite pedestal, it will stand near the main entrance to Stanley Park.

Invitations to the ceremony have been issued by the Vancouver city archives on behalf of the park board commissioners. Guests will include civic dignitaries, all pioneers who lived in Vancouver before 1889 (the year Lord Stanley dedicated the park), about 70 in all, and those who contributed to the fund. The statue has not cost one cent of civic funds.

Washington Angle

De Gaulle's Confidence

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IF Napoleon or Lafayette or even the great sun king, Louis XIV, were to walk onto the contemporary stage they could hardly be endowed with more of the grandeur of history than Charles de Gaulle. Yet, as de Gaulle proved just before his visit to America, he is still very much a figure in the march of events. He came here against the background of talks with Premier Khrushchev and Prime Minister Macmillan that are believed to have set the pattern for the summit conference.

It was de Gaulle, the realist, who talked with complete candor to the Soviet premier about the German problem. First, he reaffirmed Khrushchev's belief, expressed publicly before, that the Oder-Neisse line is the unalterable boundary between Poland and Germany. Second, he made it clear that he has no interest in the reunification of Germany.

In other words, he expressed his willingness to accept the status quo in Germany. He did this without disloyalty to his close ally, Chancellor Adenauer, since he pointed out to Khrushchev that he would gain nothing—and might lose everything—by trying to force the Western powers out of Berlin. It would be the height of folly to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany and thereby hope to squeeze out the West.

Of the de Gaulle frankness on the German problem there can be no doubt. According to a report which some knowledgeable diplomats accept, Khrushchev reciprocated by agreeing, in effect, to negotiate at the summit an interim settlement on Berlin. Proof of this is cited in a recent report in Pravda suggesting that such an interim agreement was possible, and even more significantly in the East German statement that there were other ways to settle the Berlin question besides forcing out the Western garrisons.

Those who credit this report and believe that Khrushchev left Paris willing to ratify the status quo foresee the following sequence of events:

1. Agreement in principle at the summit on an interim settlement for Berlin that would leave Western rights unimpaired.
2. The foreign ministers to meet at Geneva shortly after the summit to work out the terms under which, with some alterations, West Berlin would remain for a fixed period of years in the present relationship with West Germany.

3. Upon completion of the work of the foreign ministers, de Gaulle and Macmillan would join Eisenhower and Khrushchev in Moscow for what would, in effect, be a second and brief summit to put the final seal of approval on the settlement. Before he left Paris, in an exceptionally happy frame of mind, Khrushchev hinted at an early second summit. It is now believed that this is what he contemplated. The climax would come, with the second gathering of the four, at the end of President Eisenhower's visit to the Soviet Union about June 15 or 16.

If events do fall out this way, and certainly it is the direction in which they seem to be moving, de Gaulle will be able to claim no little credit for what could be the beginning of a peace of the status quo that might endure for an indefinite number of years. His argument with Khrushchev was that since there is no real settlement of the outstanding problems in sight it is better to accept things as they are with complete candor.

It is de Gaulle's capacity of lofty and unshakable confidence that is so impressive. That same quality is evident in his determination to create an independent nuclear deterrent for France.

He would no more dream of asking President Eisenhower for the kind of nuclear information furnished by the American government to Britain than he would think of asking to have the Washington Monument set up in the Place de la Concorde. He will not even remind the president of the unfulfilled pledge of December, 1957, to assist France in building a nuclear submarine.

The French have on schedule 26 further atomic explosions which they show every intention of going through with. What astounds Americans who have had a fairly close look at their nuclear development is that it has been done with an expenditure thus far of only $300,000,000.

If the same confidence and decisiveness were evident in solving the domestic issues that plague de Gaulle, then there would be reason for unquestioned optimism over the future of France. But this last is not the case. The war in Algeria goes on with no foreseeable end. The farmers riot as their income falls. And the intrigues continue to bore from within in the belief that they can sooner or later topple the great man.

In short, de Gaulle has not shown at home the same brilliant resolution that he displays abroad.

Speedboat Hazard

An article in the Colonist last weekend indicated that the Saanich council was going to clamp down on speedboat violations on Elk Lake.

Why stop at Elk Lake? A regular feature of a speedboat thrill on Prospect Lake is skimming past a few feet from the wharves. Lots of fun for the driver of the boat, but terror for the child swimming off the wharf.

Time out of mind I have had to warn speedboats off from the vicinity of swimmers, but to no avail; they seem to think you are signalling them in.

Water-skiing is an even worse hazard for the swimmer. They need a good dozen whistles to skim by to their own in order to land with a dry bathing suit. They realize the hazard themselves, for I have heard men shout to children swimming off nearby wharves to "get out of the water, we are going to ski."

No one wants speedboats banned altogether, but they should have consideration for the users of the lake who are interested in fishing, swimming, sailing and bird-watching.

Apartheid

South Africa bears witness that stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage. For freedom once tasted, refuses denial. And if the world weeps over apartheid, 'tis not so much for the legislation as for the darkness unseen in it.

The situation merits forgiveness for those who know not what they do. Condemnation in itself is not salvation; man progresses through enlightenment, sadly lacking here.

Equality in law is an ideal not realized. Men are unable to concede to the other fellow what they hold dear for themselves. A new approach is needed.

Policeman's Widow

Re the Constable Kirby case: Is not a policeman adequately insured by the municipality for injury or death while on duty?

A serviceman receives a disability pension for injury received, and this is extended to his widow, after his death. Under the Workman's Compensation Act provision is made for injury, etc. The very least that should be done in this case is the continuation of his wages until his dependents are able to support themselves; $5,000 is ridiculous for a widow and four children. Invested it would yield perhaps $250 per year; they need $250 per month.

Surely the police are entitled to the same protection as the fighting services and civilian workmen. This is not a case of charity, but of justice.

HUH CHUNG

Temporary

Honest Huh Takes Control

SEOUL (UPI) — Foreign Minister Huh Chung, who took over Wednesday as acting president of South Korea, is a man of integrity who speaks out regardless of the political consequences.

The 64-year-old Huh enjoys a reputation for honesty unusual in a country where corruption is rampant.

"He is incorruptible and completely honest," said a city official who served under Huh when he was mayor of Seoul.

Last year, during a visit to the U.S., he gave some frank answers to newsmen about the state of democracy in South Korea and was ousted unceremoniously on his return.

Ike Still Going to Seoul, Denies Inciting Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower still plans to visit South Korea in June and denies that the U.S. helped incite the popular demonstrations that toppled Syngman Rhee.

"The most I ever did," Eisenhower said yesterday, was to express concern to Rhee about election "irregularities" and warn him trouble could result, as "a friendly gesture" to "a man I know and respect and admire."

Korea Quiet Again

SEOUL (UPI) — Peace returned gradually to the riot-torn Republic of Korea today with the advent of Foreign Minister Huh Chung as acting president. Only scattered incidents were reported against remnants of the ousted regime of Syngman Rhee.

The national assembly will meet tonight to accept Rhee's resignation and confirm Huh, once ousted from office by Rhee, as his successor.

BETTER RELATIONS

Huh promised to work for "more intimate" economic and military relations with the U.S.

Rhee's resignation appeared to have little impact on the Korean people, emotionally exhausted from the day of demonstrations.

Apart from minor demonstrations against local officials in the provinces, there was just quiet acceptance.

SCHOOLS AGAIN

The martial law command announced that colleges in Seoul would be reopened Friday and junior high schools and high schools Monday.

Huh will form a caretaker cabinet to remain in office for about three months. Then, he said, he will retire after turning over the administration to a new government.

PARLIAMENTARY

He will attempt to push through a constitutional amendment calling for a parliamentary system of government by Aug. 15, following election of a new president and vice-president.

It appeared Rhee's Liberal party was crumbling and the two-party system was endangered. Many independents and splinter-party candidates were in the race and the election would be a wide-open affair.

The opposition Democratic party leader John Chang is favored for president. His lop-sided defeat in the March 15 election for vice-president resulted in charges of fraud that led to Rhee's resignation.

Huh hoped martial law would be lifted very soon, but added it would remain until the police were "neutralized"—meaning they no longer would be used as tools of politicians.

Training Own Rioters Backfired on Rhee

VANCOUVER (CP)—South Korea's riots backfired on Syngman Rhee, says Milton Henschel of Pennsylvania, who was in Seoul when rioting started.

"I was told the government had used students to demonstrate for years for Rhee," he said. "So when they wanted to demonstrate themselves, they knew how to do it."

You CAN Quit Smoking!

Are You an Addict? How You Smoke Tells

By ARTHUR KING

The heavy smoker smokes from 20 to 30 cigarettes every day, year round. Sometimes smoking bothers him, sometimes not. Sometimes his "bronchitis" or "smoker's cough" gets pretty bad and he tries to cut down on his intake of cigarettes. When he has to do without a cigarette for more than an hour he becomes seriously uncomfortable. The idea of being stranded without a cigarette overnight is a grim one, although he wouldn't go into a panic about it.

TALKS OF QUITTING

He talks a good deal about quitting "one of these days." He's convinced that he could, too, if he had to. On sheer will power at that. But the time is never right, or he finds that he's just smoking barely over a pack a day for the past few weeks, or, "Well, a guy's got to do something; what's the matter with smoking?" etc., etc.

At least once during his lifetime he does indeed quit smoking. Quit smoking, that is, in ordinary circumstances, at home with cigarettes available at the corner drugist or village store.

NERVOUS WRECK

This turns out, usually, to be really something. He is a nervous wreck for about three weeks; his craving is intense; he is a hard man to get along with. But he stays stopped for a little while.

His desire for a cigarette becomes less and less, although it never does seem to leave him altogether for any appreciable length of time. And there are those penetrating flashes of desire every now and then that just make life altogether useless. Why go on like this?

TOO ROUGH

Well, some make it; some don't. At a guess, I'd say about 90 per cent don't. It's just too rough—too rough over a long period of time.

This, then, is the heavy smoker. He, along with the medium smoker, composes, at a very rough guess, about 85 per cent of the smoking population—the very large majority in any event.

It is hard to advise the heavy smoker what to do, except to counsel him to let his conscience be his guide. If he sincerely believes most of the time that he'd rather be a heavy smoker, with all its vicissitudes, than a nonsmoker, then the best we can do is say: go ahead and smoke, unless you fall into the category that believes, most of the time, that it just isn't worth it.

NOT QUANTITY

It must be made clear again that the distinction between the heavy smoker and the cigarette addict is not simply a quantitative one. It is not a case of the smoker who averages 27 cigarettes a day being called a heavy smoker and the individual smoking 31 a day being called a cigarette addict. Quantity of cigarettes smoked, quantity of smoke inhaled into the lungs are factors in the case, but they are not primary concerns in our analysis at the moment.

There is a different quality to his smoking than there is to other smokers' smoking. Smoking means something somehow different in nature and character to him than to the others.

DIFFERENT REASONS

It may be a subtle, sometimes imperceptible difference; but we begin to realize, if we observe this type of smoker over any considerable length of time, that he seems to smoke for somewhat different reasons than does the light, medium, or heavy smoker.

And—this is a crucial point—he reacts very differently to the idea of quitting smoking. To the cigarette addict the notion of stopping, even temporarily, is too distressing to be entertained for a moment. If it must be discussed, he indulges the conversation with a torrent of good reasons for continuing smoking.

INNER REVOLT

Perhaps most important of all to some addicted smokers is the reason, usually unrecognized, of expressing his personal independence, a personal revolt against parental authority and, by extension, rebellion against society at large.

The addicted smoker almost invariably starts his day with a cigarette. He wouldn't dream of going to bed, in fact, without first making sure that the package was readily at hand, preferably with one of its cigarettes sticking conveniently out of its nest, matches and/or lighter close by.

These pre-breakfast smokes are more or less medicinal in nature; they're not even supposed to be enjoyed.

The foregoing more or less accurately describes the approach of most addicted smokers. Not all addicts smoke before breakfast, but most do. However, most persons who do smoke before breakfast are addicts. Not all addicts have all these symptoms, but most smokers who do portray these habits regularly are properly categorized as addicted smokers.

(This is the fourth of a series of articles by psychologist Arthur King showing how even the heaviest smokers can quit the habit without distress.)

WHAT HAPPENS

But an even more telling index of smoking addiction may be found in the individual's "quitting behavior." I.e., what happens to him when he does try to quit, or what his attitude toward quitting smoking is if he has never gone so far as to make the actual attempt. And it is in this area that we are most justified in the use of the word "addiction" in describing this kind of smoking.

This smoker, on the rare and desperate occasions he does try to quit, experiences some or all of the following symptoms:

1. He becomes painfully tense before an hour of abstinence has passed.
2. He feels frightened, depressed, anxious.

SNOWBALLING

3. He becomes alternately irritable and exhilarated. He experiences a curious "snowballing" anxiety effect; the realization that cigarettes are forbidden causes anxiety which would ordinarily be assuaged by cigarettes. The fact that cigarette smoking, while forbidden, is not actually rendered impossible compounds these anxieties.

4. He experiences bodily discomforts surprisingly close to the withdrawal symptoms of the drug or alcohol addict.

5. Sooner or later he resumes smoking—even if he has somehow managed to get by the crucial 21-day period and has stayed tobaccoless for weeks, months, or years. His reasons for relapsing are numerous, plausible and utterly false.

THIS IS ADDICTION

This, then, is addicted smoking as qualitatively distinguished from medium or heavy smoking.

The possible results of cigarette addiction can be just as excruciating, just as fatal, as any other addictive habit.

The therapy necessary to rid oneself of such an addiction must therefore be taken with the serious concern it deserves. I repeat, the chapters which follow describe a system not for dilettantes.

It is not painful, it is not even difficult, but it has to be regarded in its proper light: a psychological and medical course of treatment, self-administered, designed to cure an abnormal condition which can lead to daily discomfort, serious illness, and death.

Mill on Island To Use Waste From Interior

Wood waste from B.C. interior sawmills is soon to be used for pulp-making purposes by the Crown Zellerbach (Canada) mill at Elk Falls.

The chips will be barged to Duncan Bay on Vancouver Island from Port Moody's Pacific Bulk Terminals.

Canadian Pacific Railway is redesigning 100 gondola-type rail cars to handle the traffic—the first big-scale wood salvaging yet tackled by interior sawmills. Waste will be turned into 100,000 units of chips, the equivalent of 40,000,000 board feet of timber a year.

Each gondola car will hold 25 units, or 4,400 cubic feet, and special bulk-loading facilities will be provided at Port Moody whereby each car can be handled within two minutes.

Officials Hope So

Sidney Roofing to Stay?

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

City and industrial leaders in Victoria yesterday expressed the hope that the purchase by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited of Sidney Roofing and Paper Company might prevent that company from pulling out entirely from the capital city.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said, "I am certainly glad that control has passed into the hands of a British Columbia company. Now Sidney is owned by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River maybe the city will get more consideration than it did from the Weston empire."

WITHDRAWING

Sidney Roofing since 1949 has been a subsidiary of the Eddy Paper Company of Hull, owned by Garfield Weston, and in the past two years it has been gradually withdrawing the bulk of its plant and personnel to the mainland.

Out of more than 200 employees now only about 50 are still working at the Victoria Inner Harbor plant, on two small paper-making machines, turning out up to 25 tons a day.

Mayor Scurrell says he understands from R. W. May-hew, vice-chairman of Sidney Roofing and Paper, that the present operation is in a competitive position, and "could even expand its export market with the present product."

PLANS UNKNOWN

The plans of the new owners are not yet known. J. V. Clynne, chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, however, has said that no major changes are at present contemplated in the operations of its new Sidney subsidiary.

Some city industrialists think representations should be made to MacMillan-Powell, to encourage them not only to maintain present production at the Sidney Roofing Victoria plant, but to expand the operations to something closer to the levels that existed before the move to the mainland.

One of the problems facing the city, however, is the question of water supply. Sidney Roofing has an advantageous water rate contract which expires next August. It has been buying 150,000,000 gallons of water a year from the city at three cents per 1,000 gallons, a sum of about $4,500.

The new wholesale rate for water is 13 cents per 1,000 gallons, which would up the cost to Sidney to about $19,500. However, it is hoped that some compromise between the two levels can be reached.

FILTERING FRASER

At its mainland plant, Sidney is drawing its water from the Fraser River and after filtering, it is run through its paper machines there.

Shores of the Bay of Quinte in eastern Ontario were settled by United Empire Loyalists in 1784.

Flowers Help Fallen Friend

Flowers were sold for a fallen friend at Derby Road stand operated yesterday by neighborhood youngsters, who received $3 for fund for family of Const. Robert Kirby, killed on duty Sunday. At stand are John Graham,

6; Virginia Milligan, 8; Deborah Mason, 7, and Diana Pearce, 7. Away gathering flowers at time were Derek Mason, 5; Robbie Pearce, 5, and Jimmy MacKay, 7. — (Colonist photo.)

The public fund to aid Mrs. Dorothy Kirby, widow of Saanich policeman Robert Kirby, had passed the $4,500 mark by late last night.

It is understood that apart from a $5,000 group insurance policy, Mrs. Kirby will qualify for a $250 cash grant, a further $250 grant to cover funeral expenses and a total pension of $230 a month from the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Indications are that she will receive a pension of $90 a month for herself, and $35 a month for each of her four children.

Response to a special benefit day planned for Saturday at Island View Beach and the nearby go-kart track has been "just wonderful so far," Mrs. Nick Grabas said last night.

All proceeds from the benefit will be given to Mrs. Kirby. Food and accommodation are being prepared for some 2,000 persons.

A go-kart donated by Mr. and Mrs. Grabas will be drawn for Sunday, proceeds going to Mrs. Kirby.

Central Saanich

New Record Budget Introduced

Central Saanich council yesterday brought down a record $236,531 budget, $7,000 more than last year, but the average homeowner will not be too hard-hit.

The 2.9-mill boost over last year's 11-mill rate will cost farmers from $60 to $70 for larger farms. The smaller property owner will get by with an increase of $7 to $10. Biggest item in the budget sheet is $103,406 for schools. Next in line is public works at $38,000; administration and general, $22,936; health and welfare, $22,350; police department, $19,260.

Finance chairman R. G. Lee said that although the increase was regrettable, he felt the tax figure was realistic and would enable the municipality to control the mill rate and prevent further increases.

The municipality had been spending more than it had taken in, he said.

Race Issues On Agenda

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Macmillan said Wednesday multi-racial problems in certain parts of Africa would be discussed at the forthcoming Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

He avoided reference to South Africa, but the implication seemed clear that any discussion of racial problems would touch on the South African situation.

"The thing we have to do is to see whether we can make a success of the task we have on our hands — the setting up of a multi-racial society in those parts of Africa in which we still have responsibility," Macmillan said.

Speaking at a Commonwealth prime ministers' luncheon, he said that any differences between the Commonwealth prime ministers caused by the racial troubles could be settled only by their being honest with each other. The Commonwealth conference starts Tuesday.

He said it would be "folly to try to disguise" certain stresses to which the Commonwealth is subjected.

Education, Lawyer Controls

New Blows Rock Africa

By KEN MacTAGGART
JOHANNESBURG (Special) — South Africa is rocking from the second of two government proposals on successive days which will affect fundamental aspects of democratic life and contain what appears to be authoritarian principles. On the heels of Justice Minister Erasmus' announcement Tuesday of plans to screen barristers as to their political purity, Education Minister Serfontein told Parliament Wednesday education laws are planned which will give the central government drastic control of education of all races.

Under the latter proposals, provincial councils, comparable to Canada's provincial legislatures, must submit education legislation to the central government where a council will consider it.

No indication was given that the latter's approval must be obtained but inasmuch as the governor-general must give assent to all legislation, provincial and national refusal of this assent could render provincially-approved laws ineffective.

The education proposals carry out a threatened intention of the government to establish "uniformity" of education, hinted for a long time by Prime Minister Verwoerd.

When protests were uttered in the past, Dr. Verwoerd said nothing would be done that "any God-fearing parent could consider improper."

South African Bar Association officials have avoided until now criticizing emergency regulations and arbitrary imprisonment of numerous lawyers without trial.

A senior officer told me two weeks ago, "Our idea is that someone must remain outside prison to attempt to gain some justice."

The latest proposal has aroused comment, however, with Witwatersrand bar members issuing a statement that they are shocked, but withholding further comment.

'Fire at the Leaders' New Order to Police

VEREENIGING, South Africa (Reuters) — A South African police captain testified Wednesday police standing orders were changed "late" — not to fire over the heads of a crowd but "to fire at the leaders."

Police Capt. A. G. Brummer was testifying at an inquiry into the police killing of 67 Africans at Sharpeville March 21.

Asked if standing orders were obeyed, he replied: "Yes. We had tried to make them disperse and if one wanted to preserve law and order one had to act firmly and we acted firmly."

Shown a photograph of the crowd just before the shooting, Brummer agreed some of the African women in it were smiling and laughing.

Gogie Stewart, making his first Inter-City Lacrosse League start in unfamiliar role of referee, blows a penalty against Jack Barclay of New Westminster in last night's game at Memorial Arena. Over-anxious Barclay had just clipped Victoria-goalie George Johnston over the head with his stick, which lays at Johnston's feet. Johnston has ball safely tucked away in stick. (Colonist photo.)

Victims Keep Walking Plank With Law on Side of Pirates

It could be that they will find themselves a little short of pitching when mid-season doubleheaders come along but at the moment, Pittsburgh Pirates are rolling along with two tough righthanders, Vernon Law and Bob Friend, providing most of the impetus.

Law, a 30-year-old right-hander who is an elder of the Mormon Church, has been particularly effective. He made his third start last night, pitched nine innings for the Pirates and was credited with his third win.

Victims this time were the Philadelphia Phillies, who found home runs by Bobby Del Greco and John Callison not quite enough to prevent a 3-2 setback.

It was the sixth straight win for the Pirates, now leading the National League by a full game over San Francisco Giants, idle yesterday.

But, apparently straightened out now, the champion, Los Angeles Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves, last season's runners-up, showed more signs

Views of Sport

By Red Smith

Resurgent Redhead

Uncertain memory suggests that it was Mark Twain who found the dictionary an absorbing book, except for the author's disconcerting habit of skipping from topic to topic. Much the same might be said of the major league batting averages which brighten our Sunday sports pages from now until October. Whether one picture actually is worth more than ten thousand words depends on the skill of the photographer, but certainly one line of agile figures in those weekly columns tells more about what's happening on the playing fields than most of the throbbing prose published elsewhere.

In Sunday's tabulations, for example, was the first faint, tentative hint of an answer to questions that command the interest and touch the emotions of millions of fans: how will Red Schoendienst do in his struggle to recapture the skills that made him the world's best in a specialized and testing craft? Can surgery and resolution bring a man of 37 back from a tuberculosis sanitarium to top rank as a big league second baseman?

Figures for the first seven of Milwaukee's 154 games constitute, of course, less than the opening syllable of the answer; yet it must have given countless fans a shiver of pleasure to read them.

They showed Red Schoendienst batting .423 after 26 times at bat, leading every lanky lump of gristle in the National League except the remarkable Willie Mays. Chances are Red has no suspicions how many friends he never met are rooting for him to stay up there.

The Indispensable Man

It was during the season of 1958 that the bug got its teeth into Milwaukee's indispensable man. Though his .262 average that summer was below normal for him, he had had a fine season in the field, leading the league's second basemen on defence, and he was simply great in the World Series. He was desperately tired, though.

"But in a World Series," he said, "you know you've only got to hang on for seven games, at most. I think every athlete has a little reserve for times like that, even if he doesn't know about it."

That was the year there was talk around the league about Johnny Logan slowing down, though the Braves' shortstop was Schoendienst's junior by four years and had been around for only half of Red's 14 big league seasons. Nobody suggested that Schoendienst had lost any of the class he had brought up to the Cardinals back in 1945.

He was so solidly established at second base that most people forgot what a splendid outfielder he had been when the Cardinals needed help out there, and how well he had played third base and first and shortstop when necessary. "I know we've got Mr. Shortstop on our club" Eddie Dyer used to say when he managed the Cardinals with the marvelous Marty Marion on his infield, "but if Marty couldn't play, that redhead could move over and be the best shortstop in the league."

The Luckiest Guy

Nobody doubted that it was the acquisition of Schoendienst in June, 1957, that brought the class Milwaukee needed for two straight championships. Anybody disposed to argue about that would have been silenced last summer when Red was in the hospital and four second basemen failed to fill his job.

Just about a year ago, Schoendienst left the hospital. Late in the season he rejoined the Braves for a few token appearances. Probably he should have spared himself through the winter, but instead he was bouncing around the country helping to push Christmas Seal sales for the anti-tuberculosis association.

He seemed to enjoy it, as he always had enjoyed baseball. Indeed, some got the impression that the experience he had been through and was still going through, enriched and developed him temperamentally, brought him a new assurance and poise. Through most of his playing days he had been unfailingly pleasant and polite but maybe just a little withdrawn. Now he is gay, articulate, outgoing.

In the hospital he missed baseball terribly, even the hit-and-run barnstorming tours in the spring before the year's salary starts which are loathed by most players. He realized probably more keenly than ever before that everything about baseball had always been great fun to him. Now that he's back he still has a dreadful long pull ahead, and he thinks he's the luckiest guy in the world just to have the chance.

that they intend to make a real pennant run.

The Dodgers gave Roger Craig, who pitched them to the pennant last season after being recalled from the minors, his first start of 1960. He responded with a four-hit, 9-4 win over Chicago Cubs. Craig was better than the final score indicated, having given up but one run until he tired in the ninth inning.

Veteran Gil Hodges provided the needed runs for the Dodgers with a three-run homer in the seventh which boosted the Los Angeles edge to 5-1.

Hank Aaron laced out four hits, including his fourth home run, to lead the Braves to an 8-5 win over Cincinnati Reds, as always almost easy meat for the Milwaukee club.

Things got even tighter in the American League, where three have-not clubs—Kansas City Athletics, Washington Senators and Baltimore Orioles—came out on top.

The Senators made it when New York manager Casey Stengel stayed with his southpaw ace, Whitey Ford, one pitch too long.

Ford, who hasn't been asked to go more than seven innings so far this season, had a three-hitter after seven and a 4-1 lead. A couple of walks and a single in the eighth sent in one run with Ford obviously tiring. Stengel let him pitch to Bob Lemon, who promptly lined the first pitch out of the park for three runs and the ball game.

Kansas City, with Ray Herbert in six-hit form, handed the leading Detroit Tigers

All of which left the last-place Cleveland Indians only two and a half games behind the first-place Tigers.

Brodies, with only a chance for a second-place finish, moved into a third-place tie with Washburn in the Victoria and District Football Association by creaming hapless Equimark, 6-0, at Topaz Avenue Park.

With Charlie White getting a hat-trick, Brodies had an easy time of it, taking a 2-0 lead in the first half and winning unchanged.

Alan Glen, Henry Vanderhorst and Antol Major got the other goals.

Use Electronic Gear to Spy on Ducks

By JOHN E. BIRD
OTTAWA (CP)—A team of biologists with electronic gear is trying to solve one of nature's secrets and help wildlife officials keep closer tabs on Canada's wild duck population.

They want to determine at what time of day—and for how long—most female ducks leave their nests during the hatching period. This information will help the Canadian Wildlife Service in timing daily operations in its spring census

Condition Proves Difference For Victoria in 12-6 Defeat

By LARRY ROSE

Victoria's Inter-City Lacrosse League debut proved nothing but a headache to coach Norm Baker Wednesday night at Memorial Arena as his club slowed to a walk in the final half and fell, 12-6, to New Westminster.

A well-conditioned New Westminster team unwound in the second half with nine goals while what must rate as the toughest defence in the league allowed Victoria but two scoring shots.

GOOD START
Baker's crew had given a disappointing crowd of 1,500 hopes of an opening victory by taking a 4-3 lead at the half with an impressive display.

Stu Smith increased Victoria's lead to 5-3 after only 35 seconds of the third quarter. Then the Victoria attack gradually ground to a halt. On the other hand, New Westminster, in training a month ahead of Victoria, moved into high gear.

Three goals in 28 seconds gave New Westminster its first lead since the opening quarter. Elusive Jack Barclay connected on the odd-man play at 5:50 and Bill Jobb followed with goals at 6:00 and 6:18.

HAT TRICK
Jobb added his third goal at 12:53 on a blazing submarine shot before rookie Doug Flynn scored for Victoria in the final minute, leaving Victoria trailing 7-5.

The final quarter was all New Westminster as the defending league champions showed that they will be hard to stop this season despite losing scoring star Jack Blonda to Nanaimo.

New Westminster scored five unanswered goals in the fourth quarter. Rookie defenceman Ron Loftus put the finishing touches on the win with 12 seconds remaining when he fired a 70-foot shot past Victoria goalie George Johnston.

The New Westminster defence of Doug McFory, Jack Byford, Murray Duncan and Don Sepka gave goalie Les Norman plenty of protection in the final half.

Victoria forwards were continually kept off stride by the heavy-checking defence and when they did get through, Norman actually had few hard stops to make as the majority of the shots were right at him.

Victoria coach Baker was far from pleased with the performance.

D. A. Munro, wildlife service biologist, said in an interview that unless the service has the information it might make serious errors in establishing bag limits for the fall shoot across the country.

The western duck population is estimated by biologists flying over known nesting areas at an altitude of 100 feet. One count is made early in May of breeding pairs and another should hold our own. Gary Moore looked good out there and so did Ed Kowalyk but most of the boys need more practice."

Jobb, who appears to have all of his old ability, was talked out of retirement on Tuesday. It may be the best speech coach Jake Proctor will make all season.

Moore, not packing the extra pounds he had last season at Nanaimo, looked like a valuable addition to the Victoria club. The Islanders may have to play tonight without Ron Jay, who picked up a charity horse in second-quarter play.

Improved Smokies Gain Tie In Second Allan Cup Tussle

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Chatham Maroons and Trail Smoke Eaters battled to an overtime 5-5 tie here Wednesday night in the second game of the

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

There is one new weigh-in station this year for The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest that could provide a little fun for outdoorsmen.

It is the Roberts Lake Resort operated by Chancy Morey, and situated about 20 miles from Campbell River on the Sayward Road.

What might make it interesting is that it is situated right in the heart of the Sayward forest fishing paradise. Just 250 yards south of the coffee shop operated by Morey is a sign pointing out Roberts Lake Resort. Turn left at the sign, go in about 300 yards and you reach Little Mud Lake, which is reported seething with trout. Not much further on along the logging access trail are Big Mud Lake, Cedar Lake, Musk Lake and Farewell Lake.

We haven't been in for a look yet, but we are told there are nice semi-wilderness camping locations at each lake.

This is one area that is high on our list for exploring in the next few weeks, but meanwhile we thought we must let our readers in on the secret, because these smaller lakes are already producing good trout catches and the King Fisherman Contest starts Sunday. The bigger lakes like Roberts are still a little cold to be good fishing.

We tried fishing the upper reaches of the Cowichan River on Sunday, but with no success, although we talked to one fisherman who had landed five by still-fishing with worms. Veteran guide Art Hancock told us the river was still a little high for the best fishing, but it had earlier produced some good-sized trout and steelhead a couple of weeks ago.

"Give it a week or two," Hancock said. "It was raining like mad when we fished the Cowichan and it was anything but comfortable. There were a number of kids fishing from the footbridge and they didn't seem to be having much luck either. There was one man in a boat tied to the brush at the side of the river in the Willow Run and another two men were wading from the bank."

We tried it all ways. We fished with worm, salmon roe and fly from the wharf and bank at Pallie's Place. We fished from a boat with river guide Cliff Sharkey, who can usually produce fish if they are around.

But it wasn't our day.

There are several ways to fish the top end of the river. One and the most lucrative, usually, is in a boat with a river guide who knows the river well. System is to float down the river dragging the lures on the bottom of the river. One loses tackle, but usually gets fish. Another is to take a boat and drift down river anchoring at all the likely spots. Then a river guide comes down at an appointed time and tows you up river.

There are also a number of spots where bank fishing is possible. One of these is on the old part of the river ending Lake Cowichan where there is quite a long strip of Crown land fronting good reaches of the river.

It is possible to launch a boat at Kinsmen Park in Lake Cowichan village a few hundred yards along the road to Yebou, but only those who know the river well should attempt to go more than a couple of hundred yards past the highway bridge.

No one, no matter how experienced, should try going past the highway bridge without a reliable 12 or 15 horsepower outboard.

Some riverside residents have clamped down a little this year on anglers fishing from their property, because it is understood some fishermen have abused the privilege in the past, but many riverside residents still let anglers use their river banks if permission is sought first.

Cowichan Lake fishing is reported better at the moment than the river fishing, especially with gang troll and worm. Hugh Weatherly met success on Saturday with a grey wolf fly and Seth Hulton landed a good-sized one at Marble Bay on gang troll.

Games on Sunday Gets Softball Off

Two of the three new teams in the Heywood Avenue Park division of the Victoria Senior Men's Softball League will see action Sunday as the 1960 schedule opens with an afternoon-evening doubleheader.

Heywood Avenue division will open its season one week earlier than the Central Park division. The afternoon game Sunday has Navy meeting defending - champion Maycock Optical. Game time is 2 p.m.

Navy played at Central Park last season. Under playing-coach Andy George, Navy is expected to be one of the stronger clubs in the six-team Heywood Avenue division.

STUDENTS BACK

The evening game at 6.30 p.m. will feature the return of Chinese Students to Victoria softball after an absence of three years. Students host MacNutt's Grocery in their opening game. Coached by former city player Bill Reynolds and managed by Gil Wing, Students are remembered for their smooth-working infield in past seasons.

With the likes of assistant-coach Bernie Sam, Eddie Lou, Bobby Lowe, Terry Lowe and Dave Lowe, it appears that this will again be the case this season.

Remaining two clubs, Morrison Motors and Pro-Pats will play their opening game Monday at 6.30 p.m. at Heywood. Morrisons played at Central last season and will be coached by Lou McCorkall.

Four-Year Moratorium Ends; Olympic Team Needs Money

TORONTO (CP)—A 99-athlete team will represent Canada at the Aug. 25-Sept. 11 Olympic Games in Rome this year, but more than $100,000 is needed to get the Canadian Olympic Association out of the red.

This was disclosed at the annual meeting of the COA which heard also that Canada has "a very good chance of getting" the 1968 Winter Games.

A bid already has been made by the Calgary Olympic Development Association on behalf of Banff, Alta., and another suggesting Garibaldi Park, B.C., as the site is believed to be in the works.

NEVER HIGHER

A. Sidney Davies of Montreal, Canadian member of the International Olympic Committee, commented on reports earlier this year that the Winter Games may fold after 1964. He said these aren't true, that Canada's chances of staging the 1968 games are "very good" and that the prestige of the Winter Games "never has been higher."

A report giving receipts up to April 16 showed the COA has collected $145,670 from the dominion and provincial governments, municipalities, general public and sports governing bodies. The COA budgeted for $258,000 to cover expenses of sending teams to the 1959 Pan-American Games at Chicago, the 1960 Winter Olympics in California in February and the Summer Games in Rome.

That's why "MY BANK" keeps open special school wickets where the younger set can do their banking every Friday after school—just like mom and dad. B of M school wickets have proved their worth in encouraging children to put some of their pennies aside.

A single dollar deposit is enough to get any of your children off at the right wicket to lifetime habits of thrift.

Why not send them to the B of M this Friday? Or, better still, come along with them.

Mica Creek Dam Certain Whatever Else Is Decided

Vanier Has Key To Popularity

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gov. ernor-General Vanier has hit on a sure-fire formula for making school children like him. He gives them a holiday.

"Whenever I see children," he said here, "I want them to like me as much as I like them. I find the best way to get myself liked is to ask for a school holiday."

Trial by Jury Set in Thefts

Charged with thefts totaling more than $2,600 from F. W. Shaw Ltd., George Francis Chamberlain, 3326 Cedar Hill, appeared in city police court Tuesday and elected trial by judge and jury.

He was charged last week with forging a $250 cheque drawn on the account of the same company.

In the same court Fernand La Rochelle, 1611 Denman, pleaded guilty to theft of nails valued at $1,000 and was remanded for sentence.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Loss was estimated as high as $5,000 in cash and cheques after thieves emptied a floor safe in a Co-operative Association store behind the RCMP station here.

All Authorities Agree Declares Williston

The giant Mica Creek dam will be built as part of the proposed billion-dollar Columbia River power development no matter what other works are agreed upon, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday.

"Mica is in," he emphasized in an interview. "I don't know what all the argument is about."

He indicated timing of the Mica installation would depend on agreement on other works in the projects—but it would be built.

The minister, closely associated with Columbia development negotiations and head of the B.C. team on the Canadian federal-provincial liaison policy committee, was commenting on demands by representatives of six interior cities that the Mica Creek dam go ahead now.

The representatives, meeting in Revelstoke and representing that city, Castlegar, Nelson, Kelowna, Vernon and Kamloops, said they opposed a proposed High Arrow dam on the Arrow Lakes.

Goodbye to Nakusp

They charged it would flood thousands of acres, would wipe out the village of Nakusp and part of Revelstoke, and put the B.C. Power Commission's generating station at Wharshan out of business.

Mr. Williston said "every-one, every engineering study and every government, has affirmed that the best single development on the Columbia River is the Mica dam installation."

"There can't be any difference of opinion about that. The only point of argument must be as to whether the additional water required by the United States is to be stored in the Arrow Lakes or in the East Kootenay.

"If it is stored in the East Kootenay there will certainly be much flooding of land and communities, just as would be the case with the Arrow Lakes. No one can assert which would be the most advantageous proposition insofar as Canada is concerned until terms of agreement are reached with the U.S."

"All schemes of development include Mica Creek as a principal point."

CCF 'Labor' Tag Termed a Smear

Provincial political parties are trying to "smear" the CCF as a "Labor" party, in anticipation of an election, Patrick Thomas, CCF candidate for Saanich, charged last night.

Mr. Thomas, a teacher, said the party executive, elected at a recent convention, shows the falsehood of the label.

Nibbled to Bankruptcy Not Once, But Twice

CANTERBURY, England (Reuters) — Bankruptcy court defendant Dorothy Best offered a novel explanation. "It was mice," said the shopkeeper Tuesday. "They played havoc with everything."

Mrs. Best said she started out in the clothing business, but the nibbling mice spoiled much of her stock. So she opened a lending library in a bid to recoup and, added Mrs. Best, the mice turned out to be literature-lovers.

'Solidarity Forever'

Singing Unionists Back New Party

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress convention last night solidly endorsed formation of a new left-wing political party in Canada.

In an overwhelming standing vote, the 1,600 trade union delegates granted full authority to the CLC to assist "by all appropriate means" in calling a founding conference.

The vote brought cheers and a shower of confetti-like pieces of paper torn from programs. Then, spontaneously, delegates sang a union fighting song, "Solidarity Forever," and ended their enthusiastic demonstration with three cheers for the CLC.

The vote was an open one, delegates standing to indicate approval. There were no ballots.

Of 36 who spoke in a 3½-hour debate, 32 favored the resolution, three opposed and one just talked about confusion without taking a stand.

It appeared that about 25 delegates opposed the motion.

Earlier the convention was rocked by the dramatic walk-out of an electrical workers' delegation that wanted to keep the CLC out of direct politics.

Foul Bay to Stay—Part Way

Suggestion that, if Foul Bay Road becomes University Drive, the new name should apply only north of Fort Street, seems to have met with general approval.

Mayor Percy Scurrell made the suggestion, which has the backing of Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay and two members of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Historical Association.

Very happy. The name Foul Bay was historic, the mayor said, and should be kept south of Fort. But he was "very happy" with the proposal by Works Minister Chant that Capital Improvement District Commission consider improving Foul Bay Road as an avenue leading to the university.

Reeve Murdoch said Oak Bay would not oppose any move to change the name of the section of Foul Bay Road. "It goes right through the campus," the reeve said, "and the new name is an appropriate one. It is also a great improvement."

Miss Flora Hamilton Burns, 1015 Moss, vice-president of the historical group, thought the mayor's suggestion "might be quite suitable" because the northern part of the road is "comparatively new."

But she said that she personally feels that "names of streets have something to do with the growth of a city and if they're changed to suit a modern development, I think they lose their character."

"Foul Bay gets the full force of southeasterly winds and its name carries back to the days of sail when it was very important to know locations of safe anchorages," she said.

James Audain, 333 King George Terrace, a member of the historical society, said "I think the mayor has given quite a reasonable solution." By renaming the portion which runs from Fort to Lansdowne and retaining the present name for the southern portion interests of both progress and history would be served, he said.

It was "Room At the Top" which made British actor Laurence Harvey famous in North America. But the talented young man has appeared in the U.S. before in movies and on stage, both on Broadway and on tour.

His first American stage appearance was in "Island of Goats" with Uta Hagen in 1955. The production was a great success with the opening-night audience. The cast was overwhelmed with 12 curtain calls. Later there was the traditional opening-night party and reception.

Curious to know the critical reaction, Harvey slipped away from the gay party to buy the morning papers. He was stunned. "The reviews were the worst I've ever seen," he said. "The critics loathed the play."

He was downcast and blue all the next day, but when he arrived at the theatre for the second night's performance, there was a long line in front of the box-office.

"You see," he told the manager triumphantly. "You can't fool the public. They know a good play. Isn't it thrilling?" "Well, not exactly, Mr. Harvey," the manager slowly replied. "All those people are here to get their money back!"

Wedding Pomp to Rival Coronation

LONDON (AP) — Barring last-minute hitches, Princess Margaret's lavish wedding plans appear to be neatly tied up in a parcel of perfection. Every minute detail is listed in a booklet, issued with the approval of the Queen Mother.

The May 6 wedding should rival the Queen's coronation for royal splendor. Complex problem of choosing 2,000 guests—20 more than Westminster Abbey originally expected—has been completed, as has the selection of royalty and other top names who will join the processions. All close relatives of the Royal Family, excepting the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, will be there. Anthony Armstrong-Jones, father Ronald will walk with his former wife, the Countess of Rosse, immediately behind the Queen Mother. His present wife will sit separately in the abbey. Commonwealth prime ministers will attend the ceremony, but will not be in the procession.

Apart from Queen Elizabeth, only reigning monarch in the procession will be the Queen of Denmark. Other reigning European royal families didn't accept invitations, although representatives of nine will be there.

The principality of Kuwait on the Persian Gulf has one of the world's largest oil fields. The groom's former cleaning woman—abbey guests will include representatives of the many organizations with which Margaret is associated.

Crown-Crowned Victoria Float to Roll in Mainland Parades

Victoria city's 1960 parade float will bear a large gold and purple crown to symbolize that this is the year of a royal birth and a royal wedding. Design of the float was made public yesterday by assistant city engineer Rodrick Clark. The float itself will be shown first in New Westminster, in that city's centennial May parade, and the next day will be in the Bellingham Northwest Blossom Time parade. But it will be back in Victoria to carry the May Queen and princesses in the Victoria Day parade May 23. It may be entered in the Seattle Seafair parade in July and the Pacific National Exhibition parade in Vancouver in August. The float will be on a self-propelled steel frame platform 24 feet long, supplied by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The crown will be the dominant feature, and the May Queen will sit in front of it when she has been selected, with the princesses on either side.

The crown will surmount a free-shaped base 34 feet long and 12 feet wide, decorated as seafoam to signify Victoria's nautical associations. Four graceful royal swans will be linked to the top of the crown with glittering garlands, and flowers representing the city of gardens will decorate the whole perimeter with a focal bouquet at the front beside a large, sparkling silver "Victoria, B.C."

Group Asks Firehall For Theatre

Application of the Intimate Stage theatre group to lease the old Yates Street firehall for four months this summer was sympathetically received yesterday by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

"I think if possible we ought to encourage any cultural activities of that kind," he said. "The more of these groups we have that give training to our young people and encourage them, the better it is, I think, for the city."

The theatre group offered to pay $30 a month for the vacant firehall and to improve the wiring as necessary. It also indicated that if summer productions are successful, it may want to lease the hall for a further nine months.

Saguenay's Mercy Mission Takes U.S. Seamen Ashore

Pacific Command of the RCN last night completed another mercy mission on the high seas when HMCS Saguenay landed two U.S. Navy seamen at Port Angeles. The two men, one desperately ill and the other starting convalescent leave, were put aboard the destroyer early yesterday from the radar picket ship USS Scanner at its lonely North Pacific station. Saguenay, Esquimalt-bound from Japan in company with destroyer escorts HMCS Ottawa and HMCS St. Laurent, was detached to rendezvous with the picket ship some 250 miles west of Cape Flattery. Seas were calm when the stretcher case was swung between the two vessels in a "jackstay transfer." The other man followed in a bosun's chair. A spokesman for Pacific Command headquarters at Esquimalt said last night the USN is requesting assistance from Japan to identify the two men. They were scheduled to land doing police work, what would happen in the vent of a major blaze, such as the Crowe-Gonnesson mill fire. "At times like that every man is needed, and is called out. Where would they be found, if they were out serving summonses, for example?" Reeve Chatterton is relying on the mutual aid plan which would bring into Saanich fire-fighting units from the other, already undermanned, municipalities. "When the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, of which Saanich is a member, met in Victoria in May, 1958, they asked for and received a report on the pros and cons of integration, prepared by fire consultant C. L. Bliekstead.

Integration Has Failed Many Times

Momentary

"This is the essence of his report: "Economy measures may be necessary, and some measure of integration of duplicative fire and police administrative heads may be in order. But these should not be achieved by a reduction in trained fire-fighting personnel. Such a policy could result in momentary economies but at any unpredictable moment it could be disastrous in its effect on local fire defences."

Full Time

"Similar views have been expressed by J. N. Pryce of the fire protection engineering department, Canadian Underwriters' Association: "To train and qualify a man to perform both fire and police duties does not necessarily make him effective and efficient in either. The duties of each type of service are becoming more complicated day by day so that each is a full-time job if it is to be done properly."

Unwarranted

Police union views were expressed by Lorne Shandley. "Police officers in Greater Victoria," he said, "have watched patiently the unwarranted attacks that have been made on the duties of peace officers since March 30 as the result of the 11 per cent board award. "There has been mention of arbitration and hearings in front of a Supreme Court judge in such disputes."

Voluntary

"We would like to point out that in 1949 police and firemen in British Columbia voluntarily approached the provincial government and gave up the right to strike, realizing that they had a duty to the public which they serve. "Now we find councils attempting to emasculate us from even this position, and leave us with no bargaining rights. "This we intend to oppose. "Speaking of the award, did the procedure have no shortcomings last year, as compared with this? We accepted the 1959 award with reservations, but did not go crying to the press about it.

"We would like to inform the public that each year for many years we have submitted as possible board chairmen the names of many men widely renowned in labor-management disputes for their impartiality and legal training.

Last Thing

"Each year the city has rejected these names. "We have come to the conclusion that impartiality is the last thing wanted by the city. "At boards in the past police duties have been described as little more onerous than helping elderly ladies across the street. "Now we find that in a period of less than nine months two police officers have been killed on active duty in the Greater Victoria area. Can this situation be shown in any other city this size or larger in Canada?

$15 Pension

"Several years ago a city police officer was seriously wounded. He receives a pension cheque of less than $15 a month. "The public at large is not aware of what a police officer's job entails. "From the police point of view integration will not work, and has been proved unworkable.

"Last year the same sort of idea came forward in New Westminster, where integration was proposed. Their council was deadlocked on this until election time, when the citizens exercised their franchise and removed proponents of integration from the council.

Wanted Both

"The voters decided they wanted protection from both services, not from a loosely-knit, half-and-half setup. "No doubt individuals will point to Esquimalt as an integrated department and one which is supposed to be the epitome of perfection. "It is about time the citizens realized that all those red, brand-new trucks in their community are not municipal trucks but belong to the naval fire department.

Discarded

"Esquimalt taxpayers are served by an antiquated fire truck that was discarded by Victoria after serving as a drill wagon years ago. It belongs rightfully in the Smithsonian Institution. "Let us ask one simple question: "If the department of national defence have a fire on their own property when a call comes from Esquimalt, where are their first loyalties: there, or to taxpayers' property in Esquimalt?

Secondary

"Let us assure you—personal property would be secondary. "At present the Saanich staff is so badly undermanned that a survey of statistics across Canada in comparable areas shows Saanich has 5 policemen—half a man—for every 1,000 of population, while other cities and municipalities average from 1.5 to 2.27 officers. "The fire department, is about the same. "If the citizens want this integration, all we can say, on the basis of authorities on police and fire services in Canada, is that they must be prepared to accept second-class services. "There will be no savings whatever. "This has been proved conclusively in other areas where integration has been undertaken and finally rejected as unworkable."

Works Staff May Be Cut In Oak Bay

Oak Bay may cut its public works staff down to a few key men and let the work to private contractors if the right deal can be made, Reeve George Murdoch said yesterday. "We've been taking the matter under study for some time, looking for a way to save money," he said. "If private contractors can give us a better deal, then private contractors we will use."

He added that tenders will be called for some public works this year, but said that at the moment the matter is merely being studied. "We would have to be sure of a good deal, because if we cut the staff and then had prices raised on us, we'd be in a spot," he said. "The public works staff usually comprises about 30 men, with additional part-time help taken on from time to time."

Oak Bay Budget

Pruners Score No Gain

The first night's struggles with this year's estimates have convinced Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay that residents of the municipality are in for at least a two-mill tax increase. A week ago, the reeve predicted an increase of "from 1 1/2 to two mills." But a four-hour council session on the estimates in closed committee makes him feel he may have been a shade optimistic.

HAD TO GO IN

"It looks now as though we can't get away with less than two mills," he said last night. "Every time we found something we could cut out, there was something that had to go in. I don't know that it will go higher than two mills, but it is possible."

NOT WANTED

Biggest problem facing council at a special meeting Monday night is the matter of public works. An increase could possibly be avoided if there was a cutback in public works, but council does not want that.

CRACKING UP

"We have a great many roads that are beginning to crack up," Mr. Murdoch explained. "Every year these repairs have been knocked out of the assessments, but there comes a time when something has to be done."

Older Queen In Esquimalt

Esquimalt's May Queen and her princesses this year will be junior high school students, Reeve A. C. Wurtel said last night. The contest will be held at Esquimalt Junior High instead of Lamson Street Elementary School because "we felt the girls should be a little older," he said. No details of crowning ceremonies are fixed yet.

Yugoslav Envoy Says:

Better Capital For All Canada

Ambassador Sees Victoria

By R. O. MARRION

This may rupture Yugoslav relations with Ottawa—the city, that is—but the Yugoslav ambassador to Canada thinks it would be wonderful if Victoria was the national capital.

The ambassador, Mile Milatovic, said so yesterday while chatting with Mayor Percy Scurrah. His wife, talking to Mrs. Scurrah, was equally enthusiastic about Victoria.

TRADE TALKS

Accompanied by First Secretary Dargoljub Ristic, Mr. and Mrs. Milatovic are on a three-day visit to Victoria during which the ambassador will have trade talks with B.C. cabinet members.

Yesterday they were welcomed by Premier Bennett and the mayor and taken on a sightseeing tour by Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace.

Mayor Scurrah's interest in civic administration brought from Mr. Milatovic an explanation of the Yugoslav system.

TWO COUNCILS

Each community, he said, has an elected council of citizens and an elected council of producers, each with its own chairman but both headed by one president. The council of citizens attends mainly to social matters and the council of producers to economic matters, although on some questions they meet jointly.

"We call it social self-management," he said. "In our factories we have working self-management."

RUNS FACTORY

"In each factory with more than 30 workers, there is a council which runs the factory. Where there are fewer than 30, they are all on the council. In other words, our factories are in the hands of the working people."

Mr. Milatovic told the mayor his country has made a successful recovery since it was "completely destroyed" by the Germans in the Second World War.

"We lost much of our population. Nearly 2,000,000 were lost. Every 10th man was killed. Hundreds of thousands were left invalids or orphans."

Enthusiastic boosters of the beauties of Victoria are Yugoslav ambassador to Canada Mile Milatovic and his wife, who are making a three-day visit to the city. —(Colonist photo.)

Newspapermen Can't Get In To See Colquitz Facilities

Newspaper reporters and photographers have been denied permission to visit the Colquitz Provincial Mental Hospital here with a view to inspecting and photographing its facilities.

Health Minister Eric Martin, under whose department the institution is run, replied to a request for a tour of the hospital yesterday with the remark, "Not with inquiries pending."

ESCAPE, DEATH

He was referring to investigations now going on in connection with the escape of an armed inmate last Sunday and the subsequent death by shooting of a Saanich police constable.

He said an inspection by the press at the present time "would be most unfair."

TIGHTENED UP

Meanwhile, it has been learned unofficially that security measures at the 250 inmate institution have been tightened up.

One informant who passes the grounds regularly said yesterday that fewer of the asylum's inmates seem to be at large outside the buildings.

When It Was a Jail

Man Once Hanged In Colquitz Yard

A medieval castle-like structure on Wilkinson Road in Saanich, now known as the Provincial Mental Home, was built as a provincial jail and was used in that capacity for about seven years, a former jailer said yesterday.

One man was even hanged for murder on a gallows erected beside the building's imposing walls, said Robert G. Smith, 1289 Glyn Road.

JAILER THERE

"I was a jailer there for seven years and I remember that at least one man was hanged there. It was built for a jail, not for a mental home," he said.

Mr. Smith couldn't remember the exact years that the jail was in operation, but he recalled that it was closed during the First World War, when prisoners were transferred to Oakalla.

NEVER USED?

A mental home official said Monday following the fatal shooting of Const. Ronald Kirby by an escaped inmate, that although the maximum security building was constructed in 1913 as a provincial jail, it was never used for this purpose.

He said that the building which now houses nearly 300 mental patients was turned over to the navy during the First World War and then used as a mental home in 1919.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You performed a national service by printing the letter signed "Phoebe on Kids at Fancy Parties." This has been the cause of many big fights in our family and you have settled the matter once and for all.

The last explosion occurred when my cousin had a bridal shower. An idiot relative brought her three young roughnecks. The home where the party was being given was small. The mother had no control over her children and they took that house apart.

They opened every drawer and cupboard, stepped on everybody's shoes then started the familiar whining and nagging routine, characteristic of all tired youngsters.

In order to pacify them, their mother gave them permission to help the bride open her gifts. Those kids spoiled the party for everyone. Your column appeared the next day. I wonder how many clippings the idiot mother got in the mail!—BUFF.

I Cry All the Time

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's business made it necessary to move to this city three years ago. We have two children under 14 who like it here. I feel we are not "accepted." I have dropped out of church activities and clubs because I know a cold shoulder when I see one. My neighbors are disagreeable and unfriendly. I've stopped speaking to them.

The people my husband works with used to be hospitable and nice when we first moved here, but they've become indifferent. I refuse to run after them for their company.

My husband disagrees with me. He's good-natured, insensitive and nothing bothers him. I'm miserable and cry all the time, but he gives me no sympathy or understanding. He doesn't want to move, and suggests that I see a doctor. Help me.—OCEANS OF TEARS.

Dear Oceans: Moving to another city would solve nothing. You'd take your troubles right along, because the real problem is you.

Your husband's advice is excellent. See a doctor. Get your physical batteries recharged, then go to work on the mental ones.

People everywhere respond to friendliness, kindness, and above all, an interest in them. When you turn sour on friends over trifles, real or imagined, then sit around and cry because you're alone, don't expect people to line up and offer handkerchiefs—because they won't. What you see in others is a reflection of yourself.

She Said It was Rude

Dear Ann: My in-laws whom I love dearly are TV addicts. The minute dinner is over they plug their eyeballs into the TV set and watch anything that moves. I don't mind if they want to live like this, but must I be a party to such a ridiculous murder of time?

My husband and I visit his parents a couple of times a week. After dinner I take out a book that I bring along for that purpose. During the commercials they make a feeble attempt at disjointed conversation.

Recently my mother-in-law gave me a subtle dig because I brought a book. She said it was "rude" to sit there reading while everyone else was enjoying TV. Am I—UNCOUTH?

Dear Couth: If you prefer to read while they watch TV you should be allowed to do so with no needling from the idiot section.

Confidential to In Doubt:

Thanks for the picture of your daughter. In my opinion she's right. Give her permission to have it done.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "lets go," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Tips for Parents

Booklet Plans Play

By HELEN R. HEWSON

RCAF always brings up visions of flying, but between flights the air force is earth-bound and beset by many of the problems familiar to those of us who never get off the ground.

One of their problems is planning for the play and recreation of the children and young people who live with their parents on the air force stations.

"Planning Play" is the title of an excellent little booklet prepared by the RCAF recreation branch, with the help of the department of health and welfare.

The foreword reminds us that "play is as essential to the growth of children as food, sleep and fresh air."

"It is the substance from which personality springs. To run, jump, climb, dramatize and create are natural desires of every healthy youngster. These must be satisfied to ensure normal development."

Chapter I has some practical suggestions for parents. Those who are looking for a magic formula that will keep their children busy and happy without making any demands on mother and father may not read beyond the opening sentences.

It is a fact that the average modern home does not allow sufficient scope for the play and recreation needs of growing children and youth.

Members of all seven Victoria chapters were present and two ritual ceremonies followed. Those taking the pledge ritual were Eva Rogers, Gwen Glover, Kathleen Willerton, Dorothy Tubman, Muriel Butcherick, Vers Somers, Dorothy Kirk, Nettie Glancy, Dorothy Peaker, and Margaret Thomson.

PTA TEA

TOFINO—A successful tea and sale of home cooking was held by PTA of Tofino school, convened by Mrs. C. W. Nicholson, recently. Other conveners were Mrs. Ian MacLeod, home cooking; Mrs. Robert Baar, tickets; and Mrs. Frank Rae, Arthur, attic treasures. Mrs. Ralph Widrig and Mrs. S. McConnell Bird were prize winners.

Erma McCulloch as escorts. Guest speaker, Miss Sybil Conery, executive secretary of B.C. Save the Children Fund, described many of her experiences when touring needy areas in Europe and Africa.

"B.C. branch of the fund," said Miss Conery, "has been established 41 years and is the oldest branch in the Commonwealth." Help is given by the fund to children in all parts of the world, and through them to adults.

During the recent revolution in Hungary, Miss Conery gained first hand experience of the refugee problem, and told the Sorority two unusual reasons why Canada should help refugees.

Refugees from enslaved countries who fought for freedom ask whether their sacrifices have been forgotten.

Another reason for giving help is that any neglect of refugees is used as communist propaganda against the west.

Appalling conditions which exist in southern Italy and Greece were described by Miss Conery. Nursery schools started by the Save the Children Fund care for children who are left alone on the roadside by mothers who have to work in the fields.

"Crippled children in Uganda," said Miss Conery, "are abandoned by their families." Medical help given to these children could make them useful and welcomed in their own community.

Miss Conery said in conclusion the world will not have peace until richer countries share with the poor ones. Theme of the banquet was "Heart to Heart."

Seated at the head table were Lillian Smith, Sybil Conery, Mrs. T. H. Johns and Miss E. L. Forbes, honorary members; Mrs. E. V. Finald, social sponsor; Mrs. M. Langley, Mrs. D. Prentice, Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. A. Bell, Mrs. Y. Oakley, Miss Jean Chowan, Mrs. J. Sparks, chapter presidents.

Mrs. Kinnear

Island Beauty
Charms Speaker

The Lady Laurier Club of Oak Bay arranged a tea yesterday in honor of Mrs. R. E. Kinnear, president of the Canadian Women's Liberal Association who is here on a tour of western Liberal organizations.

Also guests of the Laurier group, were ladies of the Liberal Women's Forum.

In all, 26 women turned up to hear Mrs. Kinnear speak. Several were in Penitence for a convention.

Among the guests were Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. Archie Gibbs arranged the lovely floral centerpiece for the tea table. Conveners of the affair were Mrs. Lauder Ramsay, Mrs. A. J. MacDonald, Mrs. P. C. Walker and Mrs. W. G. Ellis.

Mrs. D. Davidson introduced the speaker, whose home is in Port Colburn, Ontario. It was Mrs. Kinnear's first trip beyond the Rocky Mountains and she said she would have some magnificent memories to take home.

"I am enthralled with the beauty of your island, and now I shall have two springs. One here, and the other later in May when I return to the Niagara Peninsula."

Mrs. Kinnear, smartly dressed in a chocolate brown suit with yellow daisies on her hat, urged the audience to make the trip East for the Liberal rally in Ottawa.

LIBERAL PIN

She hoped by then, a Liberal pin would have been manufactured. Already designed, it will have 12 tiny bars, 10 for the provinces and two for the territories in Canada. Its motto, "Unity, Security and Freedom."

Mrs. Kinnear dwelt at length upon the political fields in which women could take part. "Getting out the vote, mailing, speaking on platforms, social gatherings and even jobs as campaign managers are all being fulfilled by women."

"Many an MP would not be in Parliament if his wife were not able to take over at home. With TV, radio and the press, all women can be well-informed politically with 15 minutes a day study."

Mrs. Kinnear expressed the hope that all Liberal clubs would "get back to a flourishing state."

She said the Conservative government was showing signs of stress.

Ten Weeks and Still Nothing

New Most-Wanted Man Key to Brewer's Loss?

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — More than 10 weeks ago wealthy brewery executive Adolph Coors III vanished near his home not far from this little suburban Denver community.

It was Tuesday, Feb. 9. The 44-year-old Coors had left home at 7:55 a.m. to drive the 12 miles to the Coors brewery in Golden. He never arrived.

SMALL BRIDGE
His station wagon was found abandoned at the edge of a small bridge spanning Turkey Creek. The engine was running. The radio was playing. The bridge railing and seat of the station wagon were splattered with blood. Downstream from the bridge were found Coors' long-visored cap and his eye glasses.

SAME CLUES
These were the clues that day—the day that touched off perhaps the greatest mystery in Colorado history.

These were mostly the clues today... more than 10 weeks later. State and federal authorities appear no closer to solving the mystery than they were a few hours after the muscular, quiet-spoken Coors dropped from sight.

Officers concluded immediately Coors was kidnapped. They began a search as Coors' wife, Mary, and four children waited. Nothing happened.

Finally, Mrs. Coors asked officers to abandon their search hoping against hope this action would give the kidnapper—if there was one—an opportunity to contact the family.

Notes arrived. Some 15 or 20 of them. Most of them made ransom demands of as high as $500,000. Officers had no way to tell whether even one of them was genuine, and none was followed up.

Coors' family remained in seclusion. February disappeared. Most of March passed. Then came what may or may not be a significant development. The date was March 29. It was revealed that an escaped California killer, Joseph Corbett, Jr., 31, had disappeared from his Denver home the day after Coors' disappearance.

Corbett, living under the alias of Walter Osborne, was placed on the FBI's list of 10 most-wanted criminals. The FBI will neither confirm nor deny that Corbett, son of a Seattle, Wash., newspaperman, is a suspect.

Corbett is known to have relatives in Canada but authorities haven't disclosed where.

BURNING CAR
A week after Corbett left Denver, police at Atlantic City, N.J., found an automobile blazing on a city dump. The vehicle contained the same engine number as a yellow sedan purchased by Corbett in January. The ownership was traced to 'Walter Osborne, of Denver.

Corbett is known to be a gun enthusiast. Acquaintances said he went into the mountains alone on many occasions to engage in target shooting. A foreman at Coors' place along the mountain fringes told authorities he saw a yellow car similar to Corbett's in the vicinity of the spot where Coors' station wagon was found abandoned.

PRISON FARM
Corbett escaped in 1955 from a prison farm at Chino, Calif., where he was serving a term for second-degree murder committed in 1951.

There are two theories regarding Corbett. Some contend his disappearance was merely a coincidence and that the FBI would have placed him on the 10 most-wanted criminal list for the California prison escape even if Coors hadn't vanished.

The other theory is that the mystery of Coors' disappearance will be solved when authorities locate and question Corbett.

Days Left to Beat Death

Chessman's Lawyers All but Admit Failure

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)

Convict-author Caryl Chessman met with his three attorneys Wednesday to search for some possible remaining loophole to prevent his execution Monday morning.

The attorneys—George T. Davis, Rosalie Asher and A. L. Wirin—admitted the task would be difficult. The 38-year-old convict has sidestepped the San Quentin gas chamber eight times by grasping at straws during a 12-year legal battle to escape death for the crimes of kidnap, robbery and rape.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who granted Chessman's eighth reprieve just hours before he was scheduled to die in February, said Tuesday he was powerless to act again.

Miss Asher said Brown's statement "certainly seems very, very final." She said she couldn't think of any further reason to ask the governor for a reprieve because "I don't know what kind of new evidence we'd show him."

However, Wirin said he thought that "when all the chips are down" Chessman would be saved.

"I am satisfied that before the morning of May 2, Gov. Brown will take action... the governor's hands are not tied if he will let his conscience be his guide, nor is he powerless to exercise executive clemency."

The attorney said he would file a new appeal this week with the state supreme court.

Labor to Give Its Side of Story

MONTREAL (CP)—With a blast at management organizations, the Canadian Labor Congress endorsed an all-out intensified public relations campaign Monday to counter anti-labor assaults.

About 1,500 delegates to the national conference of the parent body of Canadian labor unanimously approved a move to put across labor's story "to the fullest possible extent" through radio, press, television and other media.

The motion—significantly the first considered at the week-long CLC gathering—said labor faces a "concerted attack" from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Construction Association and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

"This attack conducted through all mediums of communication, has resulted in the adoption by some provinces of anti-labor legislation."

TCA Plans to Buy More Vanguards

MONTREAL (CP)—Trans-Canada Air Lines Wednesday announced plans to purchase three more Vickers Vanguard aircraft, for delivery early in 1962.

Twenty of these propeller-turbine craft have previously been ordered by TCA. The Vanguard will carry about 100 passengers on TCA's medium-range routes in North America and the West Indies.

Saskatchewan To Probe Health Needs

REGINA (CP)—Dr. Walter P. Thompson, former president of the University of Saskatchewan, will head a 12-member committee to explore the health needs of the province.

Terms of reference of the committee are: to determine extent and need in the various fields of health care as related to a medical care program, scope and extent of benefits, health care requirement improvements, implications of various financing methods, methods of remuneration and methods of program administration.

Major Work, Minor Scale

By INA D. D. UTHOFF

"So often an artist's small sketch reveals a simpler and more direct interpretation than is apparent in the final work of large size."

I quote from the introduction to the exhibition of "Major Work in Minor Scale" by 19th century American painters which is now in its last week at the gallery.

George Innes' "Delaware Valley before the Storm" is a good example of condensed power in landscape painting but whether this masterly small painting was ever carried out on a larger scale I cannot say.

Many of the 19th century painters chose to work on a small canvas if the subject matter was of intimate nature. Studies of fruit and other still life components were painted with meticulous care, as the painting would be studied at close range.

The peaches look as if they were about to fall out of the bowl and in "Still Life" by William Harnett one wants to pick up the pen and find out whether there is any ink in the ink bottle.

The still lifes by Peto and Harnett are complete in themselves, they are small but of immaculate perfection.

The works have been selected from different U.S. galleries, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Academy of Design, and Detroit Institute of Arts and many private collections.

There is a Whistler, a Sargent, a Ryder, an Eakins, a painting of a soft-haired squirrel by Audubon, a small sensitively painted "Woman with Child" by Duveneck and many paintings of historical interest. One which is creating plenty of interest is Haberle's "Time and Eternity." It is painted with such realism that one stands before it, puzzled.

Are the objects painted or is it partly a "collage"? Are the nails holding the canvas really painted? Have the dollar bills and the playing card, to say nothing of the watch, been the work of human hands?

There is beautiful color in Thomas Moran's "Mammoth Springs near the Yellowstone," fine handling of paint in "Woman in Black" by William Merritt Chase and a memorable portrait study by John Vanderlyn.

This is, on the whole, a highly interesting exhibition of rare quality. It has been circulated through the American Federation of Arts.

District 63

Students Will Be On Time

Changes in bus schedules in Saanich school district 63 will enable students in the Telegraph Road and James Island areas to arrive at school on time.

Since the start of the bus service on Telegraph Road, changes in pupil loads along Mount Newton Crossroads have occurred, reducing the number of students eligible for bus transportation.

ADDED SPACE

With this additional space available, school trustees agreed to combine the Telegraph Road and James Island runs making it possible for students to arrive in school on time.

Previously an extra trip was required resulting in students from the two areas arriving from 10 to 15 minutes late.

EXTENSIONS

Bus service in the district is extended to elementary school students living 2 1/2 miles and senior students living three miles from the nearest school.

Garden Notes

Shake Up That Plum

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

UNFRUITFUL PLUM TREE

K.M.M. Sooke—It is not unusual for a plum tree to take five years or more after planting to reach the blossoming and fruiting stage. However, if your four-year-old tree doesn't bloom this spring, I would suggest that you root-prune it next November.

Take out a trench around the tree about three feet from the trunk, making it a foot wide and two feet deep. As the excavation proceeds cut through all roots which are a half-inch or more in diameter, but be careful to leave the finer roots undamaged. Probe under the tree to see if there is a tap root, and if one is found, sever it.

When this is completed, fill in the soil and make very firm, finishing off with a heavy scattering of pulverized limestone, one pound per square yard, scratched into the surface.

SEASIDE TREES (P.O.H. Victoria)—I am afraid your exposed situation, so close to saltchuck and with such salt-laden winds, would be too much for the flowering Japanese cherry or the ornamental crabapple. For good flowering trees resistant to such conditions, I suggest the Scotch laburnum, Laburnum alpinum, or one of the double-flowered thorns such as Paul's Double Scarlet and Double Pink (Crataegus oxyacanthoides plena rosea).

SHADY ROCK GARDEN (A.J.W. Duncan)—Some good plants to grow on the shaded, north-facing side of your rock garden would be Primula denticulata, Juliae, Wanda, frondosa, japonica, Florindae, Saxifraga sancta, apiculata, Epimedium alpinum, Anemone pulsatilla, Campanula muralis, corganica, turbinata and carpatia, Arenaria balearica, Cyclamen neapolitanum and cym, Arabis in variety, Iberis Little Gem, Polygonum, Trollius patulus yunnanensis, and Veronica rupestris.

HANGING BASKETS (C.H.H. Victoria)—Hanging baskets made of wire can be purchased from many garden supply stores, hardware stores and some florists. Get some woodland moss and line the basket with this, green side out, and fill with a mixture of two parts good garden soil, one part peat moss and one part coarse sand or vermiculite. Watering is always something of a problem, and it is a good idea to bury a saucer in the bottom of the basket to hold a little reserve of moisture.

Some good plants are the pendula or hanging basket Begonias, Balcony Petunias, Ivy-leaf Geraniums, Phlox Drummondii, variegated Creeping Charlie, Wandering Jew, Vinca, and Thunbergia.

OVERGROWN PRIVET HEDGE (G.J.B. Nanaimo)—It is not too late to hard prune an overgrown privet hedge, although March would have been perhaps a little better. New shoots will sprout freely from the old wood at this time of the year, and it is quite safe to remove three feet from the height and one foot from each side to reduce it to manageable proportions. It will look a bit moth-eaten at first, but will leaf out again quite quickly.

EXHIBITION LEERS (J.G.O.N. Esquimalt)—Leers are not blanching in the later stages of growth, like celery, but the blanching must commence as soon as the plants start to grow.

One stunt, much favored by exhibitors, is to use drain pipes for blanching, slipping one over the head of each plant. The standard pipe is too tall at first, so it is sunk in the ground to expose the leaf foliage, and is eased up as the plants grow taller. Some gardeners fill the pipe with clean, dry sand; others use it "as is."

Six Mental Patients

Startling Flashes of Drama

"Journey to the Day" edges the art of playwriting even closer to case history than it now is, and that is perilously close. This "Playhouse 90" script was written by Roger O. Hiron after extensive research at Columbus State Hospital in Ohio and at the psychiatric division of St. Vincent's Hospital in New York City.

The play consists of the group therapy sessions of six patients, talking at random about anything at all, but that is plenty to provide startling flashes of drama that were sometimes unbearably poignant.

Actually, this is an old, old dramatic device, trapping diverse people in a room.

But here the group therapists are following the playwright's footsteps (the artists are always intuitively ahead of the scientists)—observing clinically what sparks diverse people strike off one another. I suppose communication is the great theme of our time.

The six patients are a woman suffering from involutional depression (Mary Astor), an unsuccessful actor who is a manic depressive (Mike Nichols), a catatonic so withdrawn from the world she is unable to speak (Vivian Natham), a hebephrenic schizophrenic whose emotions are terribly inappropriate to her experiences or thoughts (Janice Rule), a morally irresponsible psychopath

Viewing World

By John Crosby

(James Dunn), a young paranoid boy (Peter Votrian).

Just assembling this group of misfits around a table is dramatically interesting to start out with. The first sessions are not terribly productive but then, as the patients get to know one another and to respond, there is an awakening of interest, a flowering of personality, and sudden stabbing insights into the bottom of those tortured, ultra-modern souls.

The villain of the crowd is James Dunn, a bully, who taunts Mike Nichols for his failings as an actor and the young boy for his mother's

Talking at Random

Indifference. Still, villains have their uses and as the sparks fly upward there are flames of self-recognition. And with each flash of self-understanding, the personalities get a little more recognizably human, a little less tense, a little more capable of coping with existence.

Because this is honest drama, there are no complete recoveries, some very partial ones, some hardly at all. (The catatonic issues only a strangered "Don't," her only word, before subsiding back behind her blank wall.)

You, the viewer, can't help but feel that the differences between sanity and insanity are very thin indeed—simply extensions to unreasonable lengths of evasions and rationalizations we all use. It's very fresh, wonderfully unexpected, but I must admit, fairly formless drama. Occasionally, it was a little too pat to be quite believable.

Altogether, I think it was one of the memorable plays "Playhouse 90" has done. What is especially important is that it has broken new ground, pushed the frontiers back a little, explored new territory with the old confidence TV drama once had in such great quantities.

Hollywood Today

No Humbert, No Lolita

By Sheilah Graham

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Errol Flynn had planned to star in "Lolita," with 17-year-old Beverly Aadland as the 12-year-old nymphet. The movie goes into production this year, but producer Stanley Kubrick is still minus his Humbert Humbert and Lolita. There's talk of asking Sandra Dee, but I'll wager her studio, Universal-International, says a big, fat no.

Anthony Quinn's co-star, Peter O'Toole, in his Eskimo epic, "The Savage Innocent," has had a change of voice in the film. His Irish brogue has been replaced by a Canadian accent. And Peter, a top actor in England, is raging.

And, while we're with the British, that fine actor, Jack Hawkins, suffering with throat trouble, has cut his cigaret consumption from several packs a day to five singles. It's harder to diet when you don't smoke. But it's even harder to break the habit.

Young Geoffrey Horne, who was so good as the baby-faced officer in "Bridge on the River Kwai"—you also saw him recently on television with Helen Hayes and Judith Anderson—and wife, model Nancy Burg, are expecting their first baby in midsummer.

My favorite makeup man at CBS, Bud Sweeney, has come up with a new idea, and joined forces with several other Hollywood makeup wizards, to market a box like a painter's palette containing 22 different shades from red to brown to nude. You use a brush like a painter and mix your colors.

You won't recognize Glenn Ford during part of "Cimarron"—he ages to 60. The original film, made in 1931 with Richard Dix and Irene Dunne, made a big star of the lady. Dix was already a front-runner. With the success of the remake "Ben-Hur," watch for other past biggies. "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is next at Metro. This was Radol Valentino's springboard to fame.

Corinne Calvet, the disillusioned—romantically and Hollywood-wise—French actress, insists "I'm quitting Hollywood." And, to her agent, "If you want me, cable me at 131 Rue de Rennes, Paris." She is now with her four-year-old son Robin. Why did she go? Corinne is tired of being typed as a French sexpot. Her last two movies: "Bluebeard's Tenth Honeymoon" with George Sanders, and "The Bellboy" with Jerry Lewis.

Frank Sinatra's talent agency has signed Tony Bennett. Said Tony, "I've been guaranteed two movies within 12 months. Bennett, who recently appeared on the Jerry Lewis show, opens at the Cloisters May 19.

Handsome George Hamilton, huddling with his manager and lawyer, revealed, "I'm investing in a 20-unit apartment house." It wouldn't surprise me if one of these days George buys the Westhampton (L.I.) Beach and Tennis Club where, three years ago, he toiled as a desk clerk.

Debbie Reynolds, another very smart business executive, has her ABC spectacular—to be taped in June with Bob Hope and Donald O'Connor—already sold in England and Australia. Debbie has been fishing in Acapulco with her father.

Talking of Debbie reminds me that she and her frequent escort, Glenn Ford, have one big topic in common. Debbie is still in the girl scouts, and Glenn, a top scout from way back, is a scout executive on the board of the Crescent Bay Council, and helps with the scoutaramas and the cub scout programs. He has been doing this since his son and mine were cubs.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

What is socialism? If you were asked to define the word, you'd probably come up with something along the lines of Webster's Unabridged: "A political and economic theory of social organization based on collective or governmental ownership and democratic management of the essential means for the production and distribution of goods."

Well, as of spring, 1960, you couldn't be more wrong. Socialism, by now is something entirely different.

The British magazine Encounter has an article by C. A. R. Crosland, a right-wing Labor MP, about the current British movement to redefine socialism. There has been "a great debate" since last fall when Hugh Gaitskell, the Labor Party leader, said flatly, at Blackpool that Labor now accepts a mixed economy and is no longer committed to British movement to redefine what's been happening there lately: The Dutch Labor party revised its program in November, 1959. It now specifically rejects state socialism and is for public control of private enterprise "if necessary."

The Swedish Social Democrats have prepared a draft revision that probably will be adopted next June. They, too, are for public control "to the extent necessary."

So that's where socialism stands right now in England. What about other Western socialist parties? Mr. Crosland includes a brief survey of

The Swiss Social Democrats "either private ownership" or "public control" or "public ownership."

The Austrian Socialists in May, 1958, endorsed "a wide scope" for private enterprise.

The German Social Democrats in November, 1959, came out for public ownership to the extent necessary for "sound economic power relations."

And so it goes. Much the

Switzerland, Too

same thing happened in Australia, New Zealand and the CCF in Canada.

So what is socialism today? The best I can offer you is this definition formulated by the Austrians:

"The aim of socialists is an order of society which has as its objective the free development of the human personality; their aim is the abolition of classes and a fair distribution of the social product."

And so it goes. Much the

Fine City Weather Leads Them All

South Africa

John D Urges Calm

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, counselling restraint and steadiness in Canada's approach to the South African problem, cautioned Wednesday against precipitate action or attempts to "mobilize the plaudits of the moment."

(Other African stories on Page 11.)

The task ahead, he told the Commons, is to bring about, before it is too late, a realization that discrimination is the forerunner of tyranny, change through force and ultimately bloodshed.

HUSHED CHAMBER

The prime minister spoke to a hushed chamber on South Africa's policy of apartheid. He was the final speaker in the three-hour debate initiated by Opposition Leader Pearson, who moved that regular business be set aside so the House could discuss the "urgent" matter.

"The work of responsible statesmen is not to arouse or to please, mobilize the plaudits of the moment," said Mr. Diefenbaker, who leaves today for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London.

'ADD TO FIRES'

"Otherwise, instead of bringing about a solution of the problem or an atmosphere in which the problem can be solved, what we do is add to the fires."

At another point Mr. Diefenbaker said: "Let us be served by steadiness and restraint. Remember that the (apartheid) problem did not begin in 1960; it has existed since 1948."

FORCED OUT

Mr. Pearson, first speaker in the extraordinary debate, had expressed fear that South Africa may force itself out of the Commonwealth through its policy of race separation. The Liberal leader, former external affairs minister, also said the killing of scores of

WERE KEEPERS NEGLIGENT? CORONER ASKS KIRBY JURY

Drama Opens Inquest

By TERRY HAMMOND

A coroner's jury was told yesterday to decide whether officials of a provincial mental home were negligent in the fatal shooting of a Saanich police constable last Sunday.

Constable Robert Norman Kirby was killed by a bullet through the heart when he walked into an ambush while seeking escaped mental patient Raymond Harold.

DRAMATIC START

The usually-routine opening of an inquest here yesterday became a drama-charged 12 minutes when Acting Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore delivered his brief address to the jury.

"You are asked to inquire into the possibility of culpable negligence on the part of Harold's keepers," Dr. Moore told the six-man coroner's jury shortly after 10 a.m.

WAS IT NEGLIGENCE?

"Was it negligence that enabled him to get firearms and ammunition?"

He said the jury's duty to inquire into possible negligence stemmed from the fact that Harold "was being kept in custody in a mental institution."

ADJOURNED

The inquest was adjourned after formal identification of the body by Detective Robin Stewart of Saanich, and a description of Kirby's injuries by a St. Joseph's Hospital pathologist, Dr. Garth L. Walters.

A spokesman for the attorney-general's department said later it was unusual for an inquest to concern itself with anything other than the actual cause of death, but perhaps justified in the Kirby case by the fact that Harold will probably not be charged.

NOT "CRIMINAL"

The coroner opened his address to the jury with the statement "it is alleged that one Raymond Harold, a person of unsound mind, did shoot and kill Kirby."

"In law," he pointed out, "a homicidal act by an insane person is not a criminal act."

UNFIT TO PLEAD

"Harold is not present at this inquest."

"He is unfit to plead or instruct counsel to plead if he is of unsound mind."

Dr. Walters told the jury that Kirby died as the result of a hemorrhage within the heart sac.

WOUND DESCRIBED

He said the police constable's chest was punctured about one inch from the centre and that the bullet fractured one rib, penetrated the chest cavity, the heart sac and the heart, punctured the left lung and lodged between the seventh and eighth ribs at the back.

The inquest was adjourned at the request of Saanich Det. Sgt. Joseph Armstrong pending completion of his investigation. It will be resumed on May 4.

In a short, dignified service yesterday afternoon the body of Const. Robert Kirby was buried in Royal Oak Burial Park. Fellow officers on the Saanich police force, right, acted as pallbearers. Some 150 law enforcement officers and naval personnel

Rhee Aide, Family Shot

Leader's Adopted Son Triggers Suicide Pact

LEE KAN SUK
... pulls trigger

SEOUL (AP)—Vice-president-elect Lee Ki-poong and his wife and two sons committed suicide in a building on the grounds of the presidential mansion about 5:40 a.m. today.

The family had disappeared from public view this week at the heights of the bloody uprising against the now fallen government of Syngman Rhee.

Home Minister Lee Ho said one of Lee's sons, who also is the adopted son of Rhee, shot and killed his father, his mother and a younger brother and then turned the gun on himself.

CHIEF TARGET

Lee Ki-poong was a chief target of anti-government demonstrations that brought the downfall of the Rhee government.

The son named as the killer was Lee Kan Suk, 22-year-old army lieutenant. Younger son was a 19-year-old college student.

Korean press reports called the deaths a suicide pact.

Lee Ki-poong and Rhee were long-time friends and the old president had hand-picked Lee as his running mate in last month's elections.

HOME BURNED

The Lee family had not been seen since mobs Tuesday sacked and burned their home. Lee Kan Suk was a platoon leader in the honor guard at South Korean army headquarters. He had at times served as military aide to Rhee.

The Rhees are childless and adoptions of the children of friends is common in the Orient.

News of the deaths shocked and hushed South Korea's normally noisy National Assembly, delaying opening of the session called to accept formally Rhee's resignation.

Police Honor Dead Officer At Last Rites

A single shot punctuated the silence at Royal Oak Burial Park yesterday afternoon as the body of Saanich policeman Robert Kirby was driven toward a waiting grave.

Fired in the dense, wooded brush to the north of the cemetery by someone apparently shooting at small game, the report echoed the single shot which took the young constable's life Sunday.

HUNTING PATIENT

Const. Kirby, 31, was shot in the heart as he searched a wooded area for a patient who had escaped from the provincial mental hospital on Wilkinson Road.

Sands' funeral home was crowded with some 350 persons yesterday when funeral services began. All 21 members of the Saanich police force attended.

City police were represented by 48 uniformed men and a number of detectives and off-duty policemen in plain clothes; five members of the army provost corps; 12 RCMP in dress uniform; 30 men and an officer from HMCS Naden, where Const. Kirby was stationed some years ago; 10 men from Esquimalt, 11 from Oak Bay and 10 from Central Saanich.

Police chiefs and deputies from the Greater Victoria area sat in the front with Saanich Coun. George Austin, representing Reeve George Chatterton, and members of Saanich police commission, Stanley Eden and George Askey.

Members of Const. Kirby's family sat in a private room to one side.

The casket, covered partly with a blanket of flowers and partly with a folded Union Jack, stood at the front of the chapel. Const. Kirby's cap holster and belt and webbing were placed neatly on top of the flag.

Following the service conducted by Rev. Jack Rogers of St. Michael's and All Angels' Anglican Church, Saanich, the coffin was opened and mourners filed past.

PALLBEARERS

The pallbearers, all Saanich officers—Det. Robin Stewart, Det. George Walton, Juvenile Officer D. E. Anderson, Cpl. Frank Briers and Const. Charles Truett—carried the coffin to the hearse through an honor guard of all uniformed men present.

Four city police motorcycles led the cortege to Royal Oak. More than 40 cars followed the hearse, together with three buses which carried the uniformed mourners.

Const. Kirby's mother, Mrs. Elsie Kerr, broke down when she arrived at the cemetery. The officer's widow, Mrs. Dorothy Kirby, was supported by friends.

After the service, uniformed police chiefs of Greater Victoria saluted the casket as they left. Charles Kirby and a friend helped Mrs. Kirby to a waiting car.

Quiet fell quickly as the last cars were driven away.

OTTAWA (CP)—A $15,000,000 Colombo Plan contribution to Pakistan this year by Canada was announced yesterday in the Commons by External Affairs Minister Green.

Oil Sellers To Die

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—Five of 24 defendants accused of making 10,000 Moroccan ill by selling adulterated cooking oil were sentenced to death here Wednesday.

LONDON (CP)—Britain formally pinned its faith Wednesday night on American missiles as the future carrier system for its nuclear deterrent.

At the height of a stormy debate over accusations of government defence waverings, the government announced in the House of Commons that British jet bombers will be sent to the United States for flight trials with the U.S. air-borne Skybolt missile which is under development.

Defence Minister Harold Watkinson also told the House that the possibility of equipping British-built submarines with American Polaris missiles is receiving "urgent study."

Labor MPs sought to censure the government for abandoning a costly project to build the all-British Blue Streak missile as a weapon.

Labor Seeks Welfare State

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress today urged adoption of an all-in welfare state program of social security stretching from cradle to grave.

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands (Reuters)—Dutch jet fighters and warships will be sent to the Pacific to reinforce Dutch West New Guinea because of Indonesia's foreign policy and military potential, it was announced Wednesday. Indonesia, a former Dutch colony, has claimed West New Guinea (West Irian) since it achieved independence in 1949. Part of New Guinea is administered by the Netherlands and part by Australia.

U.S. Doesn't Know Where Red Rockets Are

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Thomas Power, head of the U.S. Strategic Air Command, told Congress the West does not know the location of Russia's intercontinental ballistic missile bases, but hopes a proposed reconnaissance satellite will find them.

Sign Omits Ferries In Nanaimo

NANAIMO — Businessmen here plan to bring Highway Minister Gagliardi on the carpet because of a ferry sign in Victoria, one that fails to mention Nanaimo's ferries.

The sign directs traffic to the government's Sidney ferry but says nothing about the Canadian Pacific and Black Ball services here.

Breakwater Supported By Ottawa

CHEMAINUS — A Chamber of Commerce brief calling for a breakwater at Chemainus has received favorable support in Ottawa, W. F. Matthews, Nanaimo Conservative MP said here this week.

Mr. Matthews said he has every hope that the cost of the breakwater will be included in the estimates for next year's works program.

Present plans are for a substantial rock-fill breakwater.

The federal government has data on the depth of tides, drift, prevailing winds and other conditions in the harbor. The works department will build a scale model of the breakwater to determine size and position required for the harbor. Studies are expected to be completed this year.

The brief was prepared by the Chemainus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce and forwarded to Ottawa last September.

Sewer Plan Too Costly Say Owners

NANAIMO — Departure Bay residents will soon have a chance to study a $300,000 sewer program to serve an estimated 1,400 people.

Residents of the Departure Bay water district decided at a public meeting last night that a $478,000 plan was too expensive.

When a consulting firm brings down a detailed plan of the $300,000, step-by-step project, the plans will be mailed to 200 prospective householders.

The plan may be financed by a 10-mill tax increase, which would bring $20,000 of the $24,000 needed to finance the project.

DUNCAN DAYS

When I drive up-Island, I inwardly smile.
DUNCAN... I muse... is the heart of our Isle.
Nanaimo's the hub... so the suckers sing.
But Duncan... I think... has EVERYTHING.
No wonder, that those, who o'er the world roam,
Settle 'round Duncan... & call it home.
No wonder those Admirals, when time to retire,
Anchored here... and some land did acquire.
They had SEEN every City, been every-where,
And 'tho on a pension... a millionaire.
'Cause where else, from here to Bombay,

Like yachting & fishing in Maple Bay.
Or casting a fly... a golden brown.
In the sporty river that winds round the town.
Where children swim in the summer time.
Or bump over boulders that beat a sweet rhyme.
It is truly a City of culture & sports,
Under the maples... the shade of the courts.
Most all other souls struggle SO hard,
To get what Duncan has, in its front yard.
Meadows & rivers, & beautiful Bays.
A right way of life... FOR THE REST OF YOUR DAYS.

In Midst of Alberni Deadlock

Better Government Civic Group's Goal

ALBERNI — The Alberni Voters Association was formed this week to "foster and encourage better civic government" and give support to city council candidates "who will provide 'progressive government'."

The group was formed as tempers shred Alberni council and recurring deadlocks braked civic business to a near-standstill. One alderman threatened to resign this week and called on others to follow; another called council the laughing-stock of the country and the city clerk said the mayor was making his job untenable.

The new organization was formed at a meeting in St. Andrew's Church Hall and the public meeting adopted bylaws.

Other objectives listed by the organization were to study problems of town planning, sewage, amalgamation, education, water, postal services and other areas of civic development.

Hartley Haynes was elected chairman of the new organization. Other officers are Mrs. D. B. Loyd, secretary; R. James, treasurer; John Hammargren and R. White, executive officers; Mrs. Earl Foxcroft and John Dauncy, trustees.

Appointed to head study committees were Laurence Stickley and J. D. Stuart, town planning; Don Loyd, Keith Eadie, Mrs. T. Mann, sewers; Mr. Haynes and Jack Whittall, local employment; R. D. White, W. Lattimer, W. Price and E. Foxcroft, publicity and education.

Distaff Problem in Politics Not Confined to Alberni

Sketch Plans For Hospital Under Way

DUNCAN — Architects are drawing the first set of sketch plans for the proposed new hospital here.

Work started after a five-page report of a list of contents was prepared by the construction committee.

No date has been set when the plans are to be shown to the planning committee, but the gathering of facts is progressing "favorably," chairman Ald. James Saunders said yesterday.

The construction committee has held a meeting with the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service construction manager and visited Nanaimo General and Jubilee hospitals, discussing with official their construction plans.

Plans were made to hold a public meeting on May 12 in Somass Legion Hall.

At a standing room only meeting this week the town council reinstated Miss Marian Argo, a 60-year-old businesswoman, to the position on the council she was elected to fill last month.

The action came a week after the same councilmen had declared Miss Argo's seat vacant because she had missed three successive meetings.

Miss Argo charged "the boys" rigged it because they didn't want an independent thinking woman on the council.

On a roll call vote, all "the boys" approved the reseat of Miss Argo.

Crown-Crowned Victoria Float to Roll in Mainland Parades

Victoria city's 1960 parade float will bear a large gold-and-purple crown to symbolize that this is the year of a royal birth and a royal wedding. Design of the float was made public yesterday by assistant city engineer Rodrick Clark. The float itself will be shown first in New Westminster, in that city's centennial May parade, and the next day will be in the Bellingham Northwest Blossom Time parade. But it will be back in Victoria to carry the May Queen and princesses in the Victoria Day parade May 23. It may be entered in the Seattle Seafair parade in July and the Pacific National Exhibition parade in Vancouver in August. The float will be on a self-propelled steel frame platform 24 feet long, supplied by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The crown will be the dominant feature, and the May Queen will sit in front of it when she has been selected, with the princesses on either side.

The crown will surmount a free-shaped base 34 feet long and 12 feet wide, decorated as seafoam to signify Victoria's nautical associations. Four graceful royal swans will be linked to the top of the crown with glittering garlands, and flowers representing the city of gardens will decorate the whole perimeter with a focal bouquet at the front beside a large, sparkling silver "Victoria, B.C."

Group Asks Firehall For Theatre

Application of the Intimate Stage theatre group to lease the old Yates Street firehall for four months this summer was sympathetically received yesterday by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

"I think if possible we ought to encourage any cultural activities of that kind," he said. "The more of these groups we have that give training to our young people and encourage them, the better it is, I think, for the city."

The theatre group offered to pay $30 a month for the vacant firehall and to improve the wiring as necessary. It also indicated that if summer productions are successful, it may want to lease the hall for a further nine months.

Saguenay's Mercy Mission Takes U.S. Seamen Ashore

Pacific Command of the RCN last night completed another mercy mission on the high seas when HMCS Saguenay landed two U.S. Navy seamen at Port Angeles. The two men, one desperately ill and the other starting compassionate leave, were put aboard the destroyer early yesterday from the radar picket ship USS Scanner at its lonely North Pacific station. Saguenay, Esquimalt-bound from Japan in company with destroyer escorts HMCS Ottawa and HMCS St. Laurent, was detached to rendezvous with the picket ship some 250 miles west of Cape Flattery. Seamen were calm when the stretcher case was swung between the two vessels in a "jackstay transfer." The other man followed in a bosun's chair.

ASKED ASSISTANCE A spokesman for Pacific Command headquarters at Esquimalt said last night the USN in requesting assistance did not identify the two men. They were scheduled to land

REEVE MURDOCH ... Have to be sure

To Key Men

Works Staff May Be Cut In Oak Bay

Oak Bay may cut its public works staff down to a few key men and let the work to private contractors if the right deal can be made, Reeve George Murdoch said yesterday. "We've been taking the matter under study for some time, looking for a way to save money," he said. "If private contractors can give us a better deal, then private contractors we will use."

He added that tenders will be called for some public works this year, but said that at the moment the matter is merely being studied. "We would have to be sure of a good deal, because if we cut the staff and then had prices raised on us, we'd be in a spot," he said.

The public works staff usually comprises about 30 men, with additional part-time help taken on from time to time.

Oak Bay Budget

Pruners Score No Gain

The first night's struggles with this year's estimates have convinced Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay that residents of the municipality are in for at least a two-mill tax increase. A week ago, the reeve predicted an increase of "from 1 1/2 to two mills." But a four-hour council session on the estimates in closed committee makes him feel he may have been a shade optimistic.

HEAD TO GO IN "It looks now as though we can't get away with less than two mills," he said last night. "Every time we found something we could cut out, there was something that had to go in. I don't know that it will go higher than two mills, but it is possible."

NOT WANTED A biggest problem facing council at a special meeting Monday night is the matter of public works. An increase could possibly be avoided if there was a cutback in public works, but council does not want that.

CRACKING UP "We have a great many roads that are beginning to crack up," Mr. Murdoch explained. "Every year these repairs have been knocked out of the assessments, but there comes a time when something has to be done."

Older Queen In Esquimalt

Esquimalt's May Queen and her princesses this year will be Junior High school students, Reeve A. C. Wurtel said last night. The contest will be held at Esquimalt Junior High instead of Lampson Street Elementary School because "we felt the girls should be a little older," he said. No details of crowning ceremonies are fixed yet.

Yugoslav Envoy Says:

Better Capital For All Canada

Ambassador Sees Victoria

By R. O. MARRION

This may rupture Yugoslav relations with Ottawa—the city, that is—but the Yugoslav ambassador to Canada thinks it would be wonderful if Victoria was the national capital.

The ambassador, Mile Milatovic, said so yesterday while chatting with Mayor Percy Scurrah. His wife, talking to Mrs. Scurrah, was equally enthusiastic about Victoria.

TRADE TALKS

Accompanied by First Secretary Dargoljub Ristic, Mr. and Mrs. Milatovic are on a three-day visit to Victoria during which the ambassador will have trade talks with B.C. cabinet members.

Yesterday they were welcomed by Premier Bennett and the mayor and taken on a sightseeing tour by Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace.

Mayor Scurrah's interest in civic administration brought from Mr. Milatovic an explanation of the Yugoslav system.

TWO COUNCILS

Each community, he said, has an elected council of citizens and an elected council of producers, each with its own chairman but both headed by one president. The council of citizens attends mainly to social matters and the council of producers to economic matters, although on some questions they meet jointly.

"We call it social self-management," he said. "In our factories we have working self-management."

BUNS FACTORY

"In each factory with more than 30 workers, there is a council which runs the factory. Where there are fewer than 30, they are all on the council. In other words, our factories are in the hands of the working people."

Mr. Milatovic told the mayor his country has made a successful recovery since it was "completely destroyed" by the Germans in the Second World War.

"We lost much of our population. Nearly 2,000,000 were lost. Every 10th man was killed. Hundreds of thousands were left invalids or orphans."

Enthusiastic boosters of the beauties of Victoria are Yugoslav ambassador to Canada Mile Milatovic and his wife, who are making a three-day visit to the city. —(Colonist photo.)

Newspapermen Can't Get In To See Colquitz Facilities

Newspaper reporters and photographers have been denied permission to visit the Colquitz Provincial Mental Hospital here with a view to inspecting and photographing its facilities.

Health Minister Eric Martin, under whose department the institution is run, replied to a request for a tour of the hospital yesterday with the remark, "Not with inquiries pending."

ESCAPE, DEATH A medieval castle-like structure on Wilkinson Road in Saanich, now known as the Provincial Mental Home, was built as a provincial jail and was used in that capacity for about seven years, a former jailer said yesterday.

One man was even hanged for murder on a gallows erected beside the building's imposing walls, said Robert G. Smith, 1289 Glyn Road.

JAILER THERE

"I was a jailer there for seven years and I remember that at least one man was hanged there. It was built for a jail, not for a mental home," he said.

John D Urges Calm

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, counselling restraint and steadiness in Canada's approach to the South African problem, cautioned Wednesday against precipitate action or attempts to "mobilize the plaudits of the moment."

(Other African stories on Page 11.)

The task ahead, he told the Commons, is to bring about, before it is too late, a realization that discrimination is the forerunner of tyranny, change through force and ultimately bloodshed.

HUSHED CHAMBER

The prime minister spoke to a hushed chamber on South Africa's policy of apartheid. He was the final speaker in the three-hour debate initiated by Opposition Leader Pearson, who moved that regular business be set aside so the House could discuss the "urgent" matter.

"The work of responsible statesmen is not to arouse or please or mobilize the plaudits of the moment," said Mr. Diefenbaker, who leaves today for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London.

'ADD TO FIRES'

"Otherwise, instead of bringing about a solution of the problem or an atmosphere in which the problem can be solved, what we do is add to the fires."

At another point Mr. Diefenbaker said: "Let us be served by steadiness and restraint. Remember that the (apartheid) problem did not begin in 1960; it has existed since 1948."

Mr. Pearson, first speaker in the extraordinary debate, had expressed fear that South Africa may force itself out of the Commonwealth through its policy of race separation.

The Liberal leader, former external affairs minister, also said the killing of scores of

Oil Sellers To Die

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—Five of 24 defendants accused of making 10,000 Moroccan ill by selling adulterated cooking oil were sentenced to death here Wednesday.

In a short, dignified service yesterday afternoon the body of Const. Robert Kirby was buried in Royal Oak Burial Park. Fellow officers on the Saanich police force, right, acted as pallbearers. Some 150 law enforcement officers and naval personnel

from HMCS Naden formed a guard of honor around the grave as Rev. Jack Rogers read the burial service. During the service Mrs. Kirby, background, was comforted by Const. Kirby's father, Charles Kirby.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Leader's Adopted Son Triggers Suicide Pact

... pulls trigger

SEOUL (AP)—Vice-president-elect Lee Ki-poong and his wife and two sons committed suicide in a building on the grounds of the presidential mansion about 5.40 a.m. today.

The family had disappeared from public view this week at the height of the bloody uprising against the now fallen government of Syngman Rhee.

Home Minister Lee Ho said one of Lee's sons, who also is the adopted son of Rhee, shot and killed his father, his mother and a younger brother and then turned the gun on himself.

CHIEF TARGET

Lee Ki-poong was a chief target of anti-government demonstrations that brought the downfall of the Rhee government.

The son named as the killer was Lee Kan Suk, 22-year-old army lieutenant. Younger son was a 19-year-old college student.

Korean press reports called the deaths a suicide pact.

Lee Ki-poong and Rhee were long-time friends and the old president had hand-picked Lee as his running mate in last month's elections.

Lee's lopsided victory led to charges that the elections were rigged, setting off the violence.

HOME BURNED

The Lee family had not been seen since mobs Tuesday sacked and burned their home. Lee Kan Suk was a platoon leader in the honor guard at South Korean army headquarters. He had at times served as military aide to Rhee.

The Rhee are childless and adoptions of the children of friends is common in the Orient.

News of the deaths shocked and hushed South Korea's normally noisy National Assembly, delaying opening of the session called to accept formally Rhee's resignation.

Police Honor Dead Officer At Last Rites

A single shot punctuated the silence at Royal Oak Burial Park yesterday afternoon as the body of Saanich policeman Robert Kirby was driven toward a waiting grave.

Fired in the dense, wooded brush to the north of the cemetery by someone apparently shooting at small game, the report echoed the single shot which took the young constable's life Sunday.

HUNTING PATIENT

Const. Kirby, 31, was shot in the heart as he searched a wooded area for a patient who had escaped from the provincial mental hospital on Wilkinson Road.

Sands' funeral home was crowded with some 350 persons yesterday when funeral services began. All 21 members of the Saanich police force attended.

City police were represented by 48 uniformed men and a number of detectives and off-duty policemen in plain clothes; five members of the army provost corps; 12 RCMP in dress uniform; 30 men and an officer from HMCS Naden, where Const. Kirby was stationed some years ago; 10 men from Esquimalt, 11 from Oak Bay and three from Central Saanich.

MALE NURSES

Six male nurses from the provincial mental home sat on the right-hand side of the chapel.

Police chiefs and deputies from the Greater Victoria area sat in the front with Saanich Coun. George Austin, representing Reeve George Chatterton, and members of Saanich police commission, Stanley Eden and George Askey.

Members of Const. Kirby's family sat in a private room to one side.

The casket, covered partly with a blanket of flowers and partly with a folded Union Jack, stood at the front of the chapel. Const. Kirby's cap holster and belt and webbing were placed neatly on top of the flag.

Following the service conducted by Rev. Jack Rogers of St. Michael's and All Angels' Anglican Church, Saanich, the coffin was opened and mourners filed past.

The pallbearers, all Saanich officers—Det. Robin Stewart, Det. George Walton, Juvenile Officer D. E. Anderson, Cpl. Frank Briers and Const. Charles Truett—carried the coffin to the hearse through an honor guard of all uniformed men present.

LED CORTEGE

Four city police motorcycles led the cortege to Royal Oak. More than 40 cars followed the hearse, together with three buses which carried the uniformed mourners.

Const. Kirby's mother, Mrs. Elsie Kerr, broke down when she arrived at the cemetery. The officer's widow, Mrs. Dorothy Kirby, was supported by friends.

After the service, uniformed police chiefs of Greater Victoria saluted the casket as they left. Charles Kirby and a friend helped Mrs. Kirby to a waiting car.

Quiet fell quickly as the last cars were driven away.

Drama Opens Inquest

By TERRY HAMMOND

A coroner's jury was told yesterday to decide whether officials of a provincial mental home were negligent in the fatal shooting of a Saanich police constable last Sunday.

Constable Robert Norman Kirby was killed by a bullet through the heart when he walked into an ambush while seeking escaped mental patient Raymond Harold.

DRAMATIC START

The usually-routine opening of an inquest here yesterday became a drama-charged 12 minutes when Acting Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore delivered his brief address to the jury.

"You are asked to inquire into the possibility of culpable negligence on the part of Harold's keepers," Dr. Moore told the six-man coroner's jury shortly after 10 a.m.

WAS IT NEGLIGENCE?

"Was it negligence that enabled him to get firearms and ammunition?"

He said the jury's duty to inquire into possible negligence stemmed from the fact that Harold "was being kept in custody in a mental institution."

ADJOURNED

The inquest was adjourned after formal identification of the body by Detective Robin Stewart of Saanich, and a description of Kirby's injuries by a St. Joseph's Hospital pathologist, Dr. Garth L. Walther.

A spokesman for the attorney-general's department said later it was unusual for an inquest to concern itself with anything other than the actual cause of death, but perhaps justified in the Kirby case by the fact that Harold will probably not be charged.

NOT "CRIMINAL"

The coroner opened his address to the jury with the statement: "It is alleged that one Raymond Harold, a person of unsound mind, did shoot and kill Kirby."

"In law," he pointed out, "a homicidal act by an insane person is not a criminal act."

UNFIT TO PLEAD

"Harold is not present at this inquest."

"He is unfit to plead or instruct counsel to plead if he is of unsound mind."

Dr. Walther told the jury that Kirby died as the result of a hemorrhage within the heart sac.

WOUND DESCRIBED

He said the police constable's chest was punctured about one inch from the centre and that the bullet fractured one rib, penetrated the chest cavity, the heart sac and the heart, punctured the left lung and lodged between the seventh and eighth ribs at the back.

The inquest was adjourned at the request of Saanich Det. Sgt. Joseph Armstrong pending completion of his investigation. It will be resumed on May 4.

Fine City Weather Leads Them All

Perhaps it's a good sign for the weather ahead. Victoria yesterday had Canada's highest temperature—69. It was even 10 degrees hotter than San Francisco.

The weatherman seems to be holding out some hope that the good weather is here to stay.
